AUTO PLANTS START 'COMEBACK'

Woolworth Heiress and Titled Husband In Squabble Over Schooling for Son

With father, Franklin Hutton, left, and first husband, Prince Alexis Mdivani, at their Paris wedding, 1933.

Their home in Regent's park, London; her oath of renunciation of American citizenship.

Rumored rift between Countess Barbara von Haugwitz-Reventlow, the former Barbara Hutton, the Woolworth heiress, and her Danish count-husband supposedly over custody of their son, Lance, 2, has drawn world interest. As the heiress to the five-and-ten store millions turned to a British court for "protection" of her son, the count, in Paris, indignantly denied a rumor that he was seeking a settlement of $2,500,000, with the statement, "It hasn't come to that." The countess made legal inquiries regarding restoration of her American citizenship which she voluntarily renounced several months ago. Washington authorities informed her that it would take at least five years to become an American again and she would have to become an immigrant under regular quotas.

WPA Delay Leaves Water Project at Standstill

EVERYTHING ON HAND BUT MEN

Failure to Assign Workers From Relief Rolls Holds Up $75,000 Job.

Failure of the WPA to make assignments from the certified relief rolls to the $75,000 Woodland water improvement had left the project at a standstill today.

City officials who have hurried to get the project under way to provide work for those on relief said they were at a loss as to when the work would be started.

Anxious to Cut Relief Rolls.

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert explained that the city was anxious to launch the project so the relief rolls might be reduced, but were held up now because the job was entirely in the hands of WPA.

He said the city had gone as far as it could by purchasing the necessary materials and that it was waiting to hear from Philip Herzog of Newark, district area WPA engineer who is in charge of the project.

Neither Herzog nor J. L. Kelly of Columbus, director of WPA in district six, which includes Richland county, could be reached for a statement today. Their offices reported them out of the city.

In the meantime Styert said Harold S. Hursh, WPA engineer in Richland county informed him

BRITAIN READY

London Hears Government to Mediate Far East War.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Great Britain hopes to act as mediator to end the Chinese-Japanese war, it was disclosed today.

An authoritative source revealed that Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, told the house of commons foreign affairs committee at a secret meeting last night that the government was ready at any moment to mediate.

He prophesied, it was said, that the time would soon be near when it might be possible for Britain to offer "itself with good effect" as mediator.

WISH FULFILLED

Chicago to Build Fountain Willed To City 44 Years Ago.

CHICAGO—(AP)—It took 44 years, but Burnham park along Lake Michigan will soon have a pink marble drinking fountain for "man and beast."

When David Wallach died in 1894, he left $5,000 for that purpose. Now the city has proceeded to advertise for bids. Accumulated interest has boosted the fund to $14,000.

GRANDDAD OF LOBSTERS

YARMOUTH, N. S.—(Canadian Press)—The crew of the schooner Nina L. claims the lobster that got tangled in a trawl was the grandpappy of all lobsters in these parts. It weighed 30 pounds and fed the 13-man crew.

OFFERS PLAN

Ringling Wants Striking Circus Workers to Check Finances.

SCRANTON—(AP)—John Ringling North, head of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey circus, invited 1,600 striking employes today to study the show's financial accounts and judge for themselves whether a 25 per cent wage reduction was necessary.

North told the strikers that if the study did not convince them the cut was essential he would restore former wages.

SPUR HUNT FOR M'CORMICK HEIR

Posses Widen Search, Mother Fears Son Might Be Victim of Mountain Storms.

(By International News Service)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—Search for Medill McCormick, 21, scion of the Chicago publishing family, was extended today to all sections of New Mexico when no trace of the youth was found in the Sandia mountains, north of here, where he had been reported on a hiking trip.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, the youth's mother, said her greatest anxiety was that the boy may have been overcome in a severe storm that raged in the rugged mountains yesterday and was suffering from exposure.

Former Congressman Albert G. Simms, the boy's stepfather, said he felt no alarm for the safety of young Medill, believing he sought shelter from the storm and will return home unharmed.

Young McCormick, accompanied by Richard Whitmer, 21, of Albuquerque, left here Wednesday forenoon in an automobile. They planned to drive about 15 miles into the mountains, and then hike to the rim of the Sandia range.

At first local and state police were asked to "pick up" young McCormick. His continued absence aroused some alarm, however, and the police launched a statewide search.

DUKE'S FRIENDS WANT HIM BACK

Dinner Given In Honor of Windsor on 44th Birthday.

LONDON—(AP)—Admirers of the Duke of Windsor, "all agreed in love, devotion and loyalty to our former king," want him back in England.

That is what Compton MacKenzie, British writer and author of a biography telling the "real" story of the abdication, declared last night at a dinner celebrating Edward's 44th birthday.

When a telegram arrived from France expressing the duke's appreciation of the good wishes of the Society of Octavians, founded to give the abdicated king a "square deal," MacKenzie boomed: "We don't want to send telegrams to France, we want to send them to Fort Belvedere. This country needs him."

BLAST KILLS YOUTH

SALEM—(AP)—Roy Holbrook, 17, of Akron, died in a hospital today from burns he received when a gasoline stove exploded at his camp at Lake Milton.

Norma to Play 'Scarlett O'Hara'

Shearer, Clark Gable Have Lead Roles In 'Gone With Wind.'

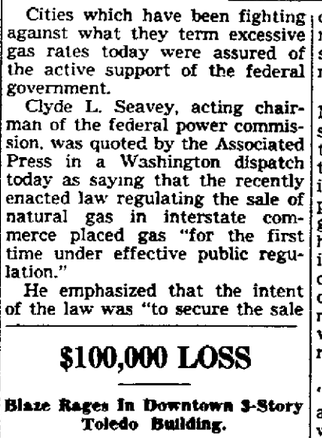
(By United Press)

HOLLYWOOD—Tears of disappointment swept Hollywood today, like last spring's flood, when David O. Selznick decided finally, definitely, and no fooling, upon Miss Norma Shearer as the heroine of "Gone With The Wind."

Clark Gable will be the hero, cameras will grind by Christmas and by this time next year the telephone-book sized novel of Miss Margaret Mitchell will be providing fans vicarious thrills via the silver sheets of the world's movie theaters.

The weeping and the gnashing of America's most beautiful feminine teeth took place in the homes of the lady stars, virtually all of whom—with the possible exception of Louise Fazenda, May Robson and Shirley Temple—thought certainly that Selznick would outfit them in red wigs and teach them southern accents for the part of Scarlett O'Hara, the Georgia Harridan.

The deal took a lot of doing. Miss Shearer and Gable work for Louis B. Mayer, who is Selznick's father-in-law and who operates his studio down the street from Selznick's own headquarters. Mayer wouldn't lend his top stars to his son-in-law, so the latter lent himself to Mayer.



NORMA SHEARER

CLARK GABLE

For this one picture, therefore, Selznick will move from his studio to Mayer's and there produce at long last "Gone With The Wind," which he bought a couple of years ago and which has kept Hollywood femininity in a dither ever since.

Miss Shearer immediately went to Lake Arrowhead for a little boning up on how to say "You All" with the proper flair. She didn't answer her 'phone.

Neither did Gable have anything to say about his part as the swashbuckling Rhett Butler, who ran through the Civil war blockade to bring his lady-love a net bonnet from Paris

APPROVAL SEEN

Senate to O. K. State Building Bill, $15,000 Board.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The senate is expected to act favorably on a measure today which would give the governor three $5,000-a-year jobs to dish out, but which stipulates the appointments must be made with the consent of the senate and within 10 days after the bill becomes effective.

The measure would call for establishment of a three-member building commission, two members from the majority party, and one from the minority, empowered to issue 25-year bonds for use in a building program at state institutions.

The commission is limited to $7,500,000 total bond issues and to use this money it would have to obtain $6,000,000 in federal grants..

MOSLEY SANE

Knox County Wife Killer To Hear Death Sentence.

MT. VERNON—(INS)—Fred Mosley, 42-year-old farmer, convicted of the slaying of his wife, awaited sentencing to the electric chair today, after three psychiatrists pronounced him sane.

The psychiatrists telephoned Common Pleas Judge Charles D. Hayden from Lima State hospital, where Mosley has been held since his conviction.

CRASH KILLS PILOT

BERLIN—(AP)—The pilot was killed and an observer injured today when a military training plane crashed through a factory roof near Templehof airport.

Cities Assured of Federal Aid In Fight For Lower Gas Rates

Cities which have been fighting against what they term excessive gas rates today were assured of the active support of the federal government.

Clyde L. Seavey, acting chairman of the federal power commission, was quoted by the Associated Press in a Washington dispatch today as saying that the recently enacted law regulating the sale of natural gas in interstate commerce placed gas "for the first time under effective public regulation."

He emphasized that the intent of the law was "to secure the sale of natural gas in interstate commerce at the lowest possible reasonable rate consistent with the maintenance of adequate service."

Most Ohio cities — including Mansfield—are supplied with gas sold in interstate commerce, with the distributing utilities, such as the Ohio Fuel Gas company, basing their rates on what they pay producing companies in West Virginia. State utility commissions heretofore have been powerless to inquire into the fairness of the charges of producing companies in other states. The new law permits the federal commission to investigate those rates, and determine their fairness.

Said Acting Chairman Seavey—"The assertion of congressional authority over the interstate wholesale rate and the grant to the federal power commission of authority to investigate and ascertain the actual legitimate cost of gas properties, depreciation and other necessary facts for rate-making purposes will make it possible for the state regulatory commissions for the first time to exercise effectively their power to fix reasonable distribution rates to the ultimate consumers."

The act, passed at the last session of congress, has received President Roosevelt's approval.

CERTIFIES BALLOTS

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Secretary of State William J. Kennedy certified the official ballots for the August primary to the county election boards today. Kennedy said there probably would be no withdrawals between now and August 9, primary day.

$100,000 LOSS

Blaze Rages In Downtown 3-Story Toledo Building.

TOLEDO—(AP)—A spectacular fire swept the Ideal Laundry and Dry Cleaning Co. plant in downtown Toledo early today causing a loss estimated by Fire Chief Fred Schlorf and Leslie Thal, president of the company, at $100,000.

The fire was raging through a three-story section of the building when discovered by a passerby.

SARAH WINS

Mrs. Fabyan Advances In All-England Tennis Tourney.

WIMBLEDON—(U.P.)—Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, Mass., moved into the fourth round of the All-England tennis championships today by scoring a 6-1, 6-0, victory over Gladys Southwell of Britain.

HEIRESS CALLS IN HER BANKER

London Hears Barbara Plans New Disposal of Fortune Because of 'Rift.'

(By Associated Press)

LONLON—A banker and a lawyer beat an early morning path to the guarded home of blond Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow today.

With a British magistrate's order standing between the American-born heiress and the noble Dane she married, the countess received Sir John Milbanke, head of the trust which controls part of her fortune.

The weary solicitor, William Mitchell, also arrived at Winfield house in Regent's park on the heels of the milkman.

Sir John's visit caused watchers to wonder if the countess were not considering some new disposal of part of her five-and-ten cent store millions.

Count Stays In Paris.

Count Haugwitz-Reventlow presumably remained in Paris, still far from a reconciliation with his slim wife of three years in the dispute over the future of their son, Lance.

If he comes to England he will be required to appear before the magistrate who issued papers to the countess on non-extraditable allegations.

Only chubby little Lance appeared to be oblivious to the commotion which has upset the routine of Winfield house.

MAXIE'S BETTER

Spent Good Night, But Injury Still Pains, Doctor Says.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Max Schmeling's condition improved at Polyclinic hospital today, although he was still suffering from his savage one-round knockout by Joe Louis.

Dr. Robert E. Brennan, who is attending the German heavyweight, issued the following bulletin:

"Mr. Schmeling had a very comfortable night. His condition continues in a very satisfactory manner. His pulse and temperature are normal."

VESSEL BOMBED

Barcelona Hears Insurgents Wreck Another British Ship.

BARCELONA—(INS)—Reports that another British merchant ship has been sunk by Spanish insurgent war planes reached here today.

The captain of the British steamer Linaria advised authorities he had seen a ship flying the Union Jack bombed and sunk by a large bombing plane off Valencia harbor.

WIDOW TO WED

Mrs. Noonan, Wife of Lost Flier, To Marry Retired Broker.

OAKLAND, Cal.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Mary Beatrice Noonan, widow of Capt. Frederick J. Noonan who was lost last year with Amelia Earhart on a South Seas flight, will marry Harry B. Ireland, wealthy retired broker of Santa Barbara, she announced today. No date was set.

Noonan was declared officially dead three days ago by an Alameda court.

NEW HEAT MARK IN SIGHT TODAY

Mercury Sizzles at 90 at Noon on Way Upward; Forecast Promises Relief.

A nation-wide heat wave, which brought 90-degree temperatures to Mansfield for the past three days, threatened to set a new record for the season this afternoon.

The mercury touched 90 at noon today, five degrees above yesterday's noon reading, and indications were that it would be three or four degrees hotter by late afternoon unless showers halt the mercury's rise.

The state forecast held a promise of scattered showers and slightly cooler tonight and Saturday as the torrid wave moves eastward.

Following in the wake of the heat, cloudbursts claimed nine lives and caused thousands of dollars of damage yesterday in Montana, bringing added suffering to an area which last Sunday saw more than 40 persons die in a train wreck caused by a washout.

Most of the dead were drowned in the vicinity of Havre, Mont., where a creek broke over its banks and swept through the center of the city. In rural areas nearby, stock was drowned and farm build-

BACK IN JAIL FOR THIRD TIME

Prisoner Who Escaped Twice In Eight Days Recaptured.

LIMA—(AP)—Harold (Happy) Paxson, 31, who broke out of the Logan county jail at Bellefontaine twice in eight days, was recaptured here today.

R. W. Steen, Erie Railway detective who made the arrest, said he saw Paxson riding thrcugh town on a freight train and seized him because he noticed a handcuff hanging to one wrist.

Sheriff Charles Bewley of Logan county returned Paxson to the jail from which he first fled June 14. Captured at Circleville June 22, the parole violator got out again the same day by crawling through a ventilator shaft.

SIGNS NEVER FAIL

OAKLAND, Cal.—(AP)—Mrs. Louis Rothwell yielded to her curiosity and forced her way through a clump of bushes in Orinda park to read a sign. "Beware of poison oak," it warned—too late. A justice court awarded her $100 judgment against the park for medical expenses.

RECOVERY BY FALL LOOMS, LEADERS SAY

General Motors Books Working Schedules for July, Once Viewed as 'Dead Month.'

OPTIMISM SPREADING

Stock Market Rallies Again, Railroad Officials See Future Brightening.

Good News!

"Good news" concerning business came from three fronts today—the automobile industry, the railroads and the stock market.

1.—Automobile leaders predict upswing, fall recovery.

2.—Railroad leaders were cheered by increased car loadings, saw bright prospects for future.

3.—Stock market soared for fifth straight day, issues climbing $10 to $15 in week.

(By International News Service)

DETROIT—A summer upswing and a fall recovery were predicted for the automobile industry today by leaders, optimistic for the first time since the recession set in last fall.

The optimism, coming closely on the heels of a wave of confidence in the steel industry and Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper's declaration that recovery is at hand, followed swift changes during the past weeks, changes based on the growing realization that despite production slumps, new car sales have been fairly steady.

Production Extended.

This steadiness has brought an extension of the 1938 model production in most plants. A month ago it was generally believed the industry would "close shop" by July 1. Yesterday General Motors Corporation President William S. Knudsen announced his firm will turn out 215,000 cars and trucks between July 1 and November 1, when the 1939 model production will be just getting into full swing.

The tentative total announced by Knudsen is small compared with totals of better years. But in his announcement, Knudsen said GM will have some plants in operation at all times during the summer, eliminating the rumored industry-wide shut down. The fact that GM plans some production throughout the summer months is indicative of the changed feeling.

Ten days ago GM Board Chairman Alfred P. Sloan, jr., predicted the industry would slump to 1932

URGES FUNDS

Roosevelt Points to Need for Broader Spy Inquiry.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—President Roosevelt said today the army and navy should have additional funds for the purpose of combatting espionage in this country.

The chief executive, commenting on the New York spy disclosures, stated that the intelligence branches of both services up to the present have had insufficient money to cope with what he termed a most serious situation.

The president's statement was made as Chairman Key Pittman of the state foreign relations committee declared he was watching the espionage situation closely with a view to introduction of new anti-spy legislation at the next session of congress.

SAFE RECOVERED

Strong Box Stolen Near Lucas Damaged Beyond Repair.

A safe which was stolen from the Auto Service station near Lucas June 15 was recovered last night near Melco by Sheriff E. P. Long.

Burglars who hauled the safe out of the station operated by Ralph Jones had damaged it so much in opening it that it was beyond repair, the sheriff said. The safe contained only a few dollars in cash and some papers.

Loot obtained in the robbery included a number of automobile tires and inner tubes and a shotgun.

CREAM OF SUMMER PRODUCE TO BE AVAILABLE AT FOOD MARKETS

Shopping through the fruit and vegetable markets these days, brings the temptation to spend more than you intended and buy more than you need, for the cream of the crop of summer produce is here.

Tempting arrays of fruit include several, if not all, of the following items: big bing cherries from the Pacific states, shipped in peaches and apricots, California plums, new Bartlett pears, and fresh figs, bright red currants, pineapples, and avacadoes.

Fresh from Richland county fruit growers are the black and red raspberries, the sour pie cherries and black, sweet cherries. The strawberries have outlasted the week and a few may be expected next week, despite the dry weather.

There are all kinds of melons, with cantaloupes running better than average.

Home grown asparagus, which has had a long season this year, continues to come in from local growers. Homegrown peas are plentiful and not expensive.

Leafy vegetables are found in many varieties—spinach, kale and mustard greens for cooking, and lettuce—leaf and head—escarole, romaine, endive and French endive. Wax and yellow beans are crisp because they are marketed the same day they are picked.

Experiments On White Rats For Paralysis Cure

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. —(INS)—America's determined march toward the goal for a cure for paralysis was given another boost here recently when Dr. George W. Peterson, professor of psychology at the University of New Mexico, contributed possible new ideas on the vital subject.

Dr. Peterson, collaborating with Miss La Charles Pracarol, graduate assistant, found by experimenting with white rats, that when certain portions of the rats' brains were deadened with an electric needle, the rats reacted in a similar manner as paralyzed persons in certain ways.

The findings in the research were published in the "Journal of Comparative Neurology," and disclosed that rats, like humans, used either their left or right paw in reaching for food.

After a portion of the brain was deadened, they learned to use the paw opposite to the one they had been accustomed to using, Peterson's report declared.

Honduras exported 1,071,509 bunches of bananas in a recent month.

WRECKING CREWS CLEARING WAY FOR HITLER'S GREATER BERLIN

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Weeks of work by wrecking crews have cleared the way for Reichsfueher Adolf Hitler's ambitious program for the reconstruction of Berlin, which will cover at least 12 years.

Hitler has declared he is not building for this generation but intends to make a magnificent capital for the greater Germany of centuries to come.

Authoritative estimates of the cost of the program already drafted set the 12-year total roughly at 3,600,000,000 marks ($1,440,000,000), but accurate figures are unobtainable, since not all the rebuilding is to be financed by the state or municipality. Many private enterprises will make their contributions.

The Fuehrer fathered the plans for a more magnificent capital and they were worked out by his director-general of buildings, Professor Albert Speer.

One imposing new feature to be given Berlin is a forum, an inspiration of Hitler's May visit of state to Rome, to be created in the center of the famous Tiergarten.

Among the edifices planned are a palace of justice, buildings to house many of the ministries and a University city on the edge of the Grunewald.

Great "northern" and "southern" railway terminals will be erected, and the present Anhalter, Potsdamer and other stations familiar to tourists will disappear.

The river Spree will be embanked. To shorten a bend in the river, a canal will be dug to enable boats up to 1,000 tons to reach the very center of the city.

Berlin's pride, the famous Grunewald, more than 13 times the size of Central Park, New York—is to be laid out as a cultivated park and playground for the population, with plenty of approaches from all sides which it now lacks.

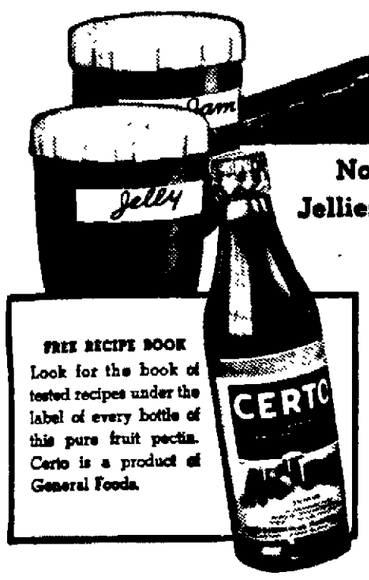
AND CERTO CUTS BOILING TIME TO ½ MINUTE FOR JELLY... ONE MINUTE FOR JAM!



FREE RECIPE BOOK
Look for the book of tested recipes under the label of every bottle of this pure fruit pectin. Certo is a product of General Foods.

No "Boiled-Down" Taste to Jams and Jellies Made This Easy Way...With Certo!

● Now's the time to stock your jam cupboard full of the delicious jams and jellies your family loves!

And with Certo you boil your fruit juice only ½ minute for jelly—one minute for jam! The whole job takes less than 15 minutes after your fruit is prepared. That short boil saves the original flavor of the fresh fruit, too. None of the flavor has a chance to escape in steam.

ALL FRUITS JELL PERFECTLY! You never need to worry about failure when you use Certo! Even hard-to-jell fruits like strawberries and pineapple jell perfectly always!

SO MUCH MORE JAM AND JELLY! During that extremely short boil, no juice boils away. So you average 11 glasses instead of 7—half again more than you would get by the old-fashioned long-boil method. Copyright, General Foods Corp., 1938

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Schmeling-Louis fight pictures are just about the best this chronicler ever saw. . . . Gene Tunney and Tommy Farr furnished a laugh. . . . Gene was dashing from the ring after being introduced. . . . Farr was dashing into the ring to be presented. . . . They collided and Tommy was almost knocked out. . . . If Max gets a return bout with Louis, so should King Levinsky. . . . He lasted a minute or so longer than Max, didn't he?

* * *

Gene Tunney will do the talking when San Francisco interests bid for a heavyweight scrap there next spring. . . . Newspapers here were driven nuts yesterday by telephoners asking if Max Schmeling had died. . . . The reports were around, all right, but they're silly. . . . Max is doing O. K. and will sail for home July 2. . . . Now that the big fight is over, Joe Louis and the wife may make an announcement soon.

* * *

Whizzer White, the football star, who turned down a $15,000 offer to play pro football to go to Oxford, is "hashing" in a fraternity house at Boulder, Col. . . . Bernie Moore, Louisiana State football coach, saw his first championship boxing match the other night.

* * *

Al Schacht, the baseball comedian, is telling it around the south that he was born and raised on a farm which stood on the space now occupied by left field in Yankee stadium. . . . Now, Al! . . . They had to call out the reserves to maintain traffic on West 49th street yesterday when Joe Louis dropped into Jimmy Braddock's spot to pay his respects.

* * *

IT MAY BE Louis vs. Baer in September, but there will be hitches. . . . General Phelan of the boxing commission didn't like the razzberries the fans poured into Maxie Wednesday night. . . . And what Baer saw there in the ring is making his wonder whether he shouldn't have "stood" in California; or something. . . . Mike Jacobs thinks the bout is a natural and will do between $500,000 and $650,000 and is more than willing to take a chance on Chicago if New York turns him down. . . . Tip: Don't wire in world series reservations to the Yanks just yet. . . . You may have to transfer 'em to Cleveland.

Hazlett Hurls No-Hit Game

Retires Side on Strikeouts in Every Inning.

Hazlett became the first baseball pitcher in the city to register a no-hit game this year when he hurled the Yankees to a 11 to 1 victory over the Red Sox in a city recreational Intermediate league game at the Fairground yesterday. Hazlett issued only one walk as he retired the side on strikes in all of the five innings. Hazlett and Jacoby hit home runs.

The Gasco Athletics put two runs across the plate in the fifth and one in the next inning to defeat the White Sox, 3 to 2 The Athletics obtained only four hits off the delivery of Contra, who hit a home run in the first. Burton limited the Sox to three.

Tackles Red Sox

Johnny Humphries to Toe Hill Against Boston Today at League Park.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Johnny Humphries who as a relief hurler held the Boston Red Sox hitless for six innings recently, drew the assignment today to take the mound for Cleveland against Tom Yawkey's hard-hitting contingent.

Manager Joe Cronin, aware that the Tribe has struck its hottest pace to date, chose Jim Bagby, jr., to pitch for the invaders in the first of a three-game series. Boston is trailing the league leaders by 3½ games.

Take Last Game.

Joe McCarthy's numbled New York Yankees managed yesterday to take the final encounter of their hapless series with the Indians. The score was 8 to 6.

Yet the game was anybody's until Earl Averill, the American league's top hitter, fanned for the third out in the last half of the ninth.

Cleveland trailed, 8 to 1, entering the final frame. Twelve thousand cash customers were about to depart when Oscar Vitt's lads opened fire.

With one out, Keltner singled to deep short. Pytlak walked. Solters, a pinch-hitter, lined a single to deep center, scoring Keltner and sending Pytlak to third. Lary doubled, bringing in Pytlak. Campbell walked as Murphy succeeded Handley in the pitcher's box.

Averill Whiffs.

A single by Hale and a fielder's choice from the bat of Jeff Heath boosted Cleveland's total to six. With one on base, Averill whiffed after taking two called strikes.

Denny Galehouse opened on the hill for the Tribe Al Milnar took Galehouse's place in the third and gave way to Bill Zuber in the sixth.

As Louis Crumbled Schmeling In One Round

Bissman company golfers are to be feared in The News-Journal Class B league.

The Bissman swingers are back in first place again today, and they returned to the top perch at Possum Run yesterday with the most magnificent team score of the season

Lead Bissmans.

Led by Tony Schadek's 36 and Bud Surtzinger's 37, the Bissmans used up only 154 strokes to defeat the Mansfield Metal Vaults, 5 to 0, and lower them into second place, four points behind.

Adam Brandt and Nick Schemine contributed scores of 40 and 41, respectively, to the Bissman total.

The Vaults also had two low scorers in Fay Strome and Bob Dillon, who wrote respective cards of 38 and 39, but it was their misfortune to be pitted against Schadek and Surtzinger.

Frank Vild turned in the low score of 35 yesterday as he led the Auxter Motors to a 3 to 2 victory over Ohio Public Service. The victory enabled the Motors to climb into a tie for sixth place with their foe Fay shot a 39 for O P S.

Kicks In Tie.

Chuck Schlegel came through with a 37 to edge V. H Oberlander, who shot a 39, as Al's Kicks took two of three points from The News-Journal. The Kicks and Newspapermen are now tied for third place, with two points of yesterday's match in doubt because of a postponement.

The Central Fruit representatives took the Elks into camp by a 2 to 1 margin, with another postponement holding up two points.

Legion Team Can Advance Notch Sunday

Mansfield's American Legion club can step up a notch in the Central Ohio semi-pro league standings Sunday when they engage the Federal Glass of Columbus in the Boosters' day attraction at the Fairground.

If the Legionnaires, who are tied with Coshocton for fourth place, win over the league leader Sunday, it is possible for them to jump into a tie for third place

Their chances to reach the higher position depend on the outcome of Coshocton's game with New Philadelphia. A victory for Coshocton will make their advancement possible.

If Mansfield wins and Coshocton loses, the best the Legionnaires can get is lone position of fourth place.

CHEVROLETS WIN

The Mohican Chevrolets defeated Liberty park, 14 to 5, in a city recreation senior league game last night. The box score was turned in too late for publication.

Mitt Champions on Parade At Friendly House Tonight

10 Amateur Kings to Appear on Outdoor Show Scheduled on North Main Street.

AT 8 o'clock tonight, weather permitting, the Friendly House will stage its annual summer outdoor amateur boxing show on it's property along North Main street.

Labeled as a "Parade of Champions," the settlement will present a card which will include nine tournament champions.

Head Program.

Headlining the show will be a three-round bout between Phil Ganni of Crestline, who formerly fought out of Willard, and Frank Parker. They are welterweights.

Ganni is a veteran amateur performer, and holds the north central Ohio 150-pound title.

In addition to Ganni, the champions are Paul Carbetta and Tom Clemens of Mansfield. Otis Scott and Bill Scott of Marion, Mel McKinley, Dale Oyster and Mike Ambers of Ashland and Paul Timman and George Weltner of Norwalk. A number of these boys appeared on the recent J. A. C. card at the Y. M. C. A.

Carbetta and Clemens are two of three Mansfield boys to appear on the all-star card. The other is the spectacular Beauford Glover, who will meet Ray Howman of Ashland. Glover's only defeat was administered by Curley Miller in the J. A. C tourney two months ago.

Carbetta will meet Frank Dolce of Crestline, who made such a brilliant showing in the J. A. C. tournament despite a huge weight handicap. Clemens will face Walter Kennedy of Ashland.

11 Bouts On Card.

Eleven bouts, in addition to a "battle royal," are on the card, which will be postponed until Monday in case of rain tonight.

The show is being sponsored by the Friendly House, with Mike Wentz and John Villella as comatchmakers.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. — Bronko Nagurski, 220, Minnesota, defeated Rusty Westcott, 203, Hawaii, two straight falls.

Savagery of Louis Shown in Pictures

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK—(UP)—You've read and heard much about the "killer instinct" in prizefighters. Now you can see it if you are so inclined.

The slow motion picture of the Joe Louis-Max Schmeling fight is probably the most faithful recording ever made of human savagery.

The picture is much more terrifying to watch than the fight was. In the Yankee stadium the rapidity with which the butchering occurred, against the background of noise and excitement, prevented anyone from getting a cold and objective view of it.

In the quiet darkness of the small theater where I saw the fight pictures yesterday I was appalled by the knowledge that this ruthless, unmerciful killer there on the screen was one and the same man as the Louis whom I had just left a few minutes before—a Louis who talked of ice cream and trips to Europe.

There is one moment in the picture that made me want to turn my head away. This is the moment when Louis sets up the helpless Schmeling for the final blow, and then delivers it. This was a right hand smash to the jaw of a falling man.

* * *

THE picture shows very clearly that Louis did hit Schmeling in the kidneys, not once, but twice. But it also shows with equal clarity that neither punch was intentional. Schmeling is wrong if he thinks these kidney punches cost him the fight. Those punches were mere taps compared to the rifle shots that all but tore his head off.

It is to be hoped that Max Baer does not see the pictures of the fight. If he does, and then signs to meet Joe, it might be wise also to sign up an alternate heavyweight in case the Californian doesn't show up.

Tonight's Card

Paul Carbett, 108, Mansfield, vs. Frank Dolce, 104, Crestline.
Walt Kennedy, 114, Ashland, vs. Tom Clemens, 114, Mansfield.
George Smith, 118, Ashland, vs. Otis Scott, 120, Marion.
Vern Green, 118, Bellevue, vs. Mel McKinley, 118, Ashland.

Clair Greenwald, 183, Norwalk, vs. Dale Oyster, 180, Ashland.

Ashland Golf Stars Beaten

Bouck, Castor, and Lutz Lose in Ohio Amateur.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Favorites today moved into the quarter-finals of the 35th annual Ohio amatuer golf tournament and overwhelming odds indicated that by nightfall Maurice McCarthy of Cincinnati, the defending champion; and Bob Servis of Dayton, would survive to battle it out for the title.

As the curtain went up at the Scioto Country club today eight linksmen remained in the running, but a pair of 18 hole rounds will cut the field and set the stage for the 36-hole final match tomorrow.

In the feature quarter-final matches McCarthy was to face Walter Mayo, slender, 20-year-old railway clerk from Massillon; and Servis was to meet Carlin Short of Akron.

The other matches sent Tony Ruddy, Toledo, against Barney Hunt, Columbus; and Danny Carmichael, Columbus, against Charles Carl, youthful Ravenna star.

Ashland's three representatives were eliminated yesterday. Tom Bouck lost to Fred Hussey, Dayton, 2 and 1; R. D. Lutz was defeated by John Florio, Columbus, 3 and 2. and Bob Castor was eliminated by Billy Lovebury, Columbus, 5 and 4.

HENRY PICARD'S 66 SETS COMPETITIVE RECORD

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., today set the pace as an all-star cast went into the second round of the $5,000 professional match play tournament at the Kentwood Country club.

Picard established a new competitive course record yesterday when he scooted around the Kentwood layout in 66 strokes. His brilliant round enabled him to defeat Tony Penna, Dayton, by three holes and Billy Burke, Cleveland, by four holes and thus hold a plus seven rating.

Louis Wants Another Bout In September

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK—(INS)—With Max Schmeling, victim of his most recent and by far greatest performance, temporarily deposited in a cubicle at Polyclinic hospital, there to be wired together again and shipped back to Germany for ever more, Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis today announced that he wants to fight in September.

His opponent probably will be Max Baer, who seemingly won't be satisfied until he has been reduced to debris again as he was in 1935 when he met Louis and as Schmeling was on Wednesday night.

Louis wants any opponent they pick for him, he said. Baer most emphatically wants Louis, he explained at great length. Promoter Mike Jacobs will take any fight that will draw money and today indicated a return between Baer and Louis in preference to another Tommy Farr-Louis meeting. as has been rumored.

But while Schmeling was tossing about on his bed at Polyclinic, where he will be confined for 10 days, with a transverse process, or part of his spine fractured by one of Louis' right hand punches. and while pugilistic channels were cuttered with conjecture over one thing and another. Promoter Jacobs predicted that the million dollar gate is a thing of the past—for the present anyway.

York Matches Foxx Output

Hits 20th Home Run as Tigers Trim Red Sox.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Rudy York, the husky slugger that Manager Mickey Cochrane has learned can't be kept out of the Detroit Tigers' starting lineup despite defensive weaknesses, today was deadlocked with the veteran Jimmy Foxx of the Boston Red Sox for the major league home run leadership.

York slammed out his 20th circuit drive of the year yesterday to help the Tigers beat the Red Sox 10 to 2. The triumph enabled Detroit to move back into fourth place in the standing.

"Dutch" Leonard, rookie knuckle ball expert, scattered eight hits as he pitched Washington to an easy 12 to 0 victory over the hapless Chicago White Sox. Lynn Nelson, of Connie Mack's newest "finds," won his eight victory of the season when he hurled the Philadelphia Athletics to a 7 to 1 victory over St. Louis. Nelson has lost only one contest.

In the National league feature the Cincinnati Reds bested the pace-setting New York Giants 8-5.

The St. Louis Cardinals scored twice in the ninth inning to edge the Boston Bees 2 to 1.

Brooklyn snapped a three-game losing streak by defeating Pittsburgh, 8 to 1.

BUYING ORDERS SWAMP MARKET FOR FIFTH DAY

Stock Leaders Exceed Gains of Early in Week From 1 to 3 Points.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Another wave of buying swept the stock market, bringing the fifth straight advance since the recovery got under way on Monday.

The ticker was again swamped, as yesterday. It fell four minutes behind actual transactions on the floor and lagged throughout the first hour.

Leaders at their highs were up 1 to 3 points more on top of the big gains scored since the first of the week. A rush of profit-taking checked the upsurge before the end of the first hour and brought average reactions of a point from the highs, but the list soon quieted down and the undertone remained strong.

Not since July last year has the the market gone up five days in a row, and the rise then for the period was little more than half that scored so far this week.

Sales for the first hour alone were 820,000 shares, promising to make the full session the biggest since the panic days of last October.

U. S. Steel was up nearly 3 at its high and Bethlehem more than 2. The gains were cut considerably on the profit-taking rush.

Equally wide gains were scored by the Chemicals, with leaders up 3 points. Chrysler and General Motors were in big demand at rising prices, while there was a bullish demonstration in the oils.

See Television Linking Britain, U.S. In Two Years

LONDON—(INS)—British television experts, co-operating with American technicians, believe that in two years time America and Britain will be able to "look into each others affairs."

An expert connected with the British Broadcasting company, and television set manufacturers said that he is convinced that in another two years America and the BBC will co-operate to perfect the reception of each others television broadcasts.

It has been found that radiations which were supposed to leave the air altogether now return at great distances from the original station. Television signals from Alexander Palace—the first station to give regular broadcasts—are being picked up all over the world, Capetown, Philadelphia and many other distant points, are receiving these signals which are being resolved onto the television screen.

INCOME SOARS

$69,800,000,000 for 1937, U. S. Report Shows.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The national income in 1937 soared to $69,800,000,000, the highest level since 1929, the commerce department has reported.

Although the business decline in the final months cut heavily into the industrial volume of the first three quarters, the national income was $6,400,000,000 larger than in 1936.

In 1929, national income set a record of $81,000,000,000, a figure which declined to $40,000,000,000 in 1932.

National income produced is defined by the department as the net value of all commodities produced and services rendered in the nation during a given year.

HOLC TRIMS

Ohio Next to Receive Operation Adjustments.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Home Owners' Loan corporation prepared today to consolidate or "trim" operations in the Ohio district in line with readjustments contemplated in other states.

Congress has cut $1,500,000 from the $29,000,000 appropriation asked by the HOLC and a spokesman said "there will be reorganization in Ohio the same as in other states." Any changes decided upon will not become effective until July 15 or Aug. 1.

"The complete Ohio picture has not been worked out yet," he added. "The state is important from the standpoint of loans and requires an efficient organization."

HEAD FOR HOME

10,000 Townsendites End Parley; Hear Leader Speak.

LOS ANGELES — (INS) — Ten thousand Townsendites were homeward bound today with the words of leader Dr. Francis E. Townsend, ringing in their ears: "This country is ours and we are going to take possession of it!"

All through the five-day convention Dr. Townsend sounded his hopes of making the Townsend party a national power in politics. Delegates were told to "change your registration, and get into our party."

The trophies will go to paddle-board and surf-riding champion at the Venice, Cal., aquatic carnival.

NAME OFFICERS

Sons of Union Vets Elect Mt. Vernon Man.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—W. G. Ryan of Portsmouth was elected commander of the Sons of Union Veterans yesterday at closing sessions of the annual encampment of the grand army of the republic in Ohio and auxiliary organizations.

George Waller, Alliance, was chosen senior vice president; Earl V. Farmer, Utica, junior vice president, and George L. Pfiefer, Wooster, Joseph C. Kaestle, Cleveland, and Clyde Church, Mt. Vernon, council members.

It's Odd

But It's Science.

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The death ray that could be used to attack armies becomes more and more difficult to make as science progresses.

For every lethal form of ray, science sooner or later finds that nature herself has set up barriers to protect her children. The neutron is an example.

This is the newest ray, the deadliest, the first one to penetrate very far from its generator. It is made of a stream of the primordial particles of matter. It can be seen as a bluish transparent flame, shooting a foot or more into the air. Beyond the visible end it can be measured for 50 feet or more. It is dangerous at 50 feet.

But that is far too short a distance for military uses. If, however, the air were not 80 per cent nitrogen, neutrons might penetrate long distances.

This discovery about nitrogen's stopping power was found in Columbia university's cyclotron. It was reported to the American Physical Society by Dr. J. T. Dunning, P. N. Powers and H. G. Beyer. Oxygen, hydrogen, the other most common gases are "transparent" to neutrons—not stopped so quickly.

DUCK DINNER COSTLY

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Stephen Kravic's dog had a "ducky" dinner but his master had to pay the check. Judge Lewis Drucker ordered Kravic to pay Mrs. Elsie Bixius $4.90—35 cents per pound for her two ducks eaten by the dog.

2 NEW VOLUMES WILL ATTRACT READERS HERE

'Eagle Forgotten' and Ludwig's Book on Roosevelt Top Library Additions.

New non-fiction at the Mansfield Public library this week includes two volumes that undoubtedly will be popular with Mansfield readers. One of them is the biography of a powerful political figure who once lived in this vicinity and once attended Mansfield high school.

It is "Eagle Forgotten," Harry Barnard's story of John Peter Altgeld, the German immigrant baby who came to Mansfield with his parents, grew up in near-poverty, fought for an education and rose to control millions of dollars and wield wide political power. He was a law partner of Clarence Darrow and sponsor of William Jennings Bryan.

"Roosevelt: A Study in Fortune and Power" is Emil Ludwig's new book on Roosevelt and presents the president in terms of the human forces that forged his character. The author is a German and one suspects that the glamor and personal magnetism of the president threw dust in his eyes.

"Fifty Years A Country Doctor" is a thrilling human document and will be interesting to those who remember the days when the family doctor was the family confessor as well as healer. William N. McCartney, M. D., has written a remarkable account of a country doctor's lifetime of work in northern New York state, near the Canadian border.

Truth in New York City.

Munro Leaf, whose "Ferdinand, The Bull" has become a classic for adults as well as children, has written a new book: "Listen Little Girl" in which he tells as much of the truth as he could find of what goes on in New York City He outlines what a girl's chances are of making good in a number of lines of work

Ex-Chancellor Kurt von Schuschugg of Austria tells the moving and tragic story of his country in "My Austria." It is written in diary form and tells the story of Austria from the World war up to the time Germany took it over.

Other non-fiction this week is "The Modern Family and The Church," by Regina Hanson Wieman; "My America," Louis Adamic, "You Can't Do That" by Seldes; "Coin Collection," Coffin; "Antique Fales and Reproductions," Lee; "Art and Character," Bailey; "Old Williamsburg and Her Neighbors," Stevens; and the Pultizer prize volume of poetry, "Cold Morning Sky," by Marya Zaturenska.

In"My Son, My Son," Howard Spring has given an absorbing tale of English life in the past half-century. From a humble beginning in Manchester it moves to London with the rising fortunes of two brothers and their sons.

Two new fiction books deal with the Negroes of the South. "Blow For A Landing" by Ben Lucien Burman; and "Uncle Tom's Children," which is a collection of four novelettes written by Richard Wright, a member of the Federal Writers Project.

"Mortal Storm" by Phyllis Bottome, is a story of Jewish life in Germany under Nazi regime. Four other fiction volumes are "Pasquier Chronicles," by Duhamel; "Crooked Furrow," Farnol; "Raiders of Spanish Peak," by Grey; and "Strangers" by Oldfield.

OPEN DRIVE

Republicans Start Fund Campaign After Hamilton Speech.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Spurred by John D. M. Hamilton's statement that constitutional government was in danger of disappearing unless the party makes substantial gains in November, 350 Republican campaign workers today started an eight-day drive for funds.

The Republican national chairman said that 100 or more seats in congress should be gained by the party in the coming elections. Other speakers were James W. Garfield, son of President Garfield, and J. F. Lincoln, president of the Lincoln Electric company.

Double Murder?

Apparently victims of a double murder, the bodies of J. Ed Peek of Atlanta, Ga., and his bride of three months, were found beside this wrecked automobile at the bottom of a railroad cut 60 feet beneath a highway bridge near Austel, Ga. Evidence, including a piece of rope tightly coiled around Mrs Peek's neck and no skid marks on the road, led to the murder theory.

ENGINEERS PLAN SUPER-HIGHWAY SYSTEM IN OHIO

Roadways 44 Feet Wide in Sections of Heavy Traffic Under Construction.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—A super-highway system spanning Ohio from the north to south and east to west over heavily traveled routes is predicted by K L. Rothermund, chief engineer of the state highway department.

Disregarding the secrecy with which the plans have been formerly enshrouded, Rothermund revealed the highway department has blueprints calling for divided 44-foot roadways in sections where traffic merits such roads

He said work had already been started in several localities including stretches between Bowling Green and Toledo and Columbus and Zanesville. As rapidly as funds are made available other highways heavily burdened with traffic will be discarded for modern, wide pavements

So well planned is the work that the average citizen residing near the scene of present construction is unaware of what is transpiring, Rothermund explained

Built in Sections.

The Bowling Green-Toledo road is being constructed one section at a time. When the first 22-strip is completed it will be opened to traffic. Then the contractor will lay down another strip the same width, insert a parkway lane and there will be the streamlined highway designed for both the present and future Divided roads in other localities will be built the same way.

Rothermund was quick to point out, however, that many highways will not be remodeled because "divided roads are not necessary in every instance."

Where there is only a small amount of traffic, he said, highways will remain at the present standard width.

He indicated that it was a safe bet that the following heavily traveled routes eventually would be made into divided, super-highways.

U S 25, running from Cincinnati to Toledo through Dayton, Lima and Findlay over which an average of 3,224 motor vehicles pass daily;

U. S. 20 from Toledo through Cleveland to the Pennsylvania boundary line and over which an average of 2,762 vehicles travel daily

U. S. 40 from the Pennsylvania state line through Cambridge, Columbus, Dayton, Springfield to the Indiana line and over which an average of 2,594 vehicles pass each day.

Sections of U. S. 42, 30, 23, 21, and the Three C highway also may come in for considerable attention.

Three important factors considered in constructing super-highways are predictions that accidents will be reduced; the expense of construction will not overburden the taxpayer, and the roadways will not be divided where they pass through the larger municipalities

"We are sure that head-on-collisions will be eliminated on super highways," Rothermund said. "The only thing to contend with will be accidents resulting from one machine bumping the rear of another vehicle."

Calls High Blood Pressure Solely American Disease

PHILADELPHIA— (INS) —High blood pressure was stamped as almost exclusively an American disease by Dr. Edward Weiss, professor of clinical medicine at Temple University, in an address before the Ethical Culture society here.

Among the causes cited was the inborn American idea of individual "success at any price," as opposed to strong Christian ideals of brotherhood. The conflict results in emotional disturbances which lead to high blood pressure in later years, Dr. Weiss said.

Records show, he added, that every other death past the age of 50 is traceable to a cardio-vascular-renal disorder due to high blood pressure.

Dr. Weiss suggested as a simple antidote that "we take it easy" and direct our energies along more natural channels instead of working along "high pressure" lines.

AUNT JENNY SAYS— HERE'S A DAINTY, DELICATE "SUMMER" PIE AS COOLING AS ICED LEMONADE - TRY IT!

RECIPE BELOW

LEMON CHIFFON PIE

1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
3 egg whites
½ cup sugar
1 baked Spry Pie Shell

Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine beaten egg yolks, sugar, salt and lemon juice, and blend well Cook over boiling water until thick and foamy, beating constantly with rotary egg beater (about 3 minutes). Remove from hot water. Beat in gelatin and lemon rind. Chill until slightly thickened.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry Add sugar gradually (about 1 tablespoon at a time), beating after each addition until stiff Fold carefully into gelatin mixture until well blended. Pile lightly in baked Spry Pie Shell Chill in refrigerator several hours, or until firm And when you eat it, notice how perfectly the delicate Spry pastry blends with the dainty chiffon filling.

BAKED SPRY PIE SHELL

1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup Spry
3 tablespoons cold water (about)

Sift flour and salt together Add ⅓ of Spry and cut in until mixture is as fine as corn meal. Takes almost no time at all, Spry's so creamy and smooth! Add remaining Spry and continue cutting until particles are size of a navy bean. This makes your pastry flaky as can be! Sprinkle water, 1 tablespoon at a time, over mixture With a fork, work lightly together until a dough is formed. Roll dough ⅛-inch thick and prick with fork. Place dough in pie plate and let relax 5 minutes Pat with ball of dough. Trim pastry ½" larger than pan and turn back edge. Flute rim. Chill. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 15 minutes.

(All measurements in these recipes are level)

In 3-lb. and 1-lb. cans. Also in the big 6-lb. family size

(Clip and save this Spry recipe)

Doubly delicious results this new, quick, easy way

SEE how quickly cakes and pie crust are mixed with Spry! Cooking experts for 281 home-making schools say it's the creamiest shortening they ever used. No wonder you get lighter, finer cakes—flakier, more tender pastry. And what delicate, delightful flavor! Notice the fine, delicate flavor of Spry-fried foods, too—so crisp and free from greasiness. HEART ON HER SLEEVE

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

(Copyright, 1938)

CHAPTER III

Wholesale food and a comfortable bed. Warm baths and alcohol rubs administered by kind nurses. Medicine to soothe her jagged nerves.

It was all such a heavenly relief after all she had been through that Moleen lay in a tired stupor for two days and nights before her weary brain began to function along usual lines.

She had scarcely wondered what was happening, and had asked almost no questions of the nurses or Mignon. But as new life began to stir in her, she opened her eyes and looked around the room.

The nurse was taking a short walk, and Mignon sat beside her the afternoon of the third day when she raised on an elbow and studied her surroundings.

"It's lovely—this room," Moleen said weakly. "Where are we?"

"You're in a penthouse overlooking Central Park." Mignon put her magazine down and took Moleen's white little hand. "And when you're a little stronger you can sit by the window and admire our view."

Moleen sank back on her pillows with a faint sigh.

"It's — so nice being here. I'm so tired. I—I'll hate to leave."

"Oh," Mignon said quickly, "you're not going to go. I'm going to keep you here. Please, please, my dear, don't worry."

* * *

Moleen opened her eyes and studied the face of the girl bent over her. Tears of sympathy stood in the large brown eyes. All Mignon's deeply maternal instinct was registered in her plain face, giving it a lovely glow. Mignon felt the girl's thin hand tighten in hers.

"You're awfully good." Moleen blinked back tears. "I'm so glad you picked me up. What happened to me?"

Mignon hesitated.

"I struck you with my car," she admitted then. "You stumbled out of the path and it happened before I could stop. So you see I really owe you a great debt. I might have killed you."

"Oh, no," Moleen denied quickly. "It wasn't your fault. You mustn't blame yourself."

"It's sweet of you to take it this way. But I am going to make it up to you." Mignon straightened the pillows under Moleen's head. "You must tell me what I can do. What you want most."

Moleen sighed.

"Only a job! That's all. I've looked all over New York since I finished business school last year, and I haven't found a day's work. It's been—dreadful."

"If that's all," Mignon smiled, "forget about it. I can certainly give you a job."

Moleen's eyes lit up.

"Really? Oh, that would be so kind of you. I've had stenography. I can take dictation very well."

"Then you're hired. I need a new social secretary. You'll live here and be my companion."

Moleen studied the older girl's face, but there was no sign of levity. She said unbelievingly:

"Live here—with you? How do you know you'd want me? Why, you know nothing at all about me."

Mignon laughed lightly.

"I'm a fatalist. At the time the accident happened in the park I was feeling very sorry for myself. But after hearing something about your troubles mine seem very silly. I think you'll be a very good influence on me."

* * *

Gradually, piece by piece, Mignon put together a part of the pattern of Moleen's life as she grew stronger and felt like talking. It seemed incredible to her that the other half could live in such abject poverty and misery.

The fifth day, Dr. Meade, leaving the patient, went into the library where Mignon stood looking out the window. The radiant face she turned to him was a surprise. The doctor, who had known her ever since she was born, smiled.

"I've never seen you looking lovelier, my little lady. Nor quite so gay."

"I am happy. For the first time in my life I feel I'm doing something really helpful for somebody. Isn't Moleen a pathetic little thing, doctor?"

"She'd stir the maternal instinct of a mummy," Dr. Meade agreed. "But you must go easy. You know nothing about the girl, really. I'm told you're making plans to keep her here and make a companion of her. I'm not so sure your father will like it."

"He must." Mignon's chin took on a stubborn look. 'Father may be district attorney of New York, but he can't forbid me to keep Moleen."

Dr. Meade laughed

"You're all set for him. I see. Well, he'll be home this evening, won't he? We'll soon see what he thinks of your taking in a waif and making a Cinderella out of her."

Tom Laine opened the door of his penthouse and saw a trained nurse disappear into his daughter's room down the hall.

He was greatly relieved when, rushing after the white-clad figure, he saw Mignon standing before her dressing table.

"What's going on?" He kissed his only child affectionately. "Who's sick?"

"Sit down," Mignon held him tightly, "and I'll explain. I—it's no one you know."

When the mystery was cleared up the district attorney smiled. His daughter waited breathlessly for what was coming next. Usually, she got her own way. But sometimes father was a bit difficult.

"Come." He got up. "Will you present me to the patient?"

Moleen, sitting upright against several large pillows, wore one of Mignon's loveliest blue bed jackets. It brought out the blue of her eyes, and her black curls were a riot against the white of her pillows. Her face was entirely drained of color and her lips still chilk white. Mignon had tied a blue ribbon around her hair and she looked like a little girl of twelve.

Tom Laine held out his hand.

"This daughter of mine tells me she messed you up a little bit, you lady. I hope we can get back on your feet soon."

Moleen showed her little white teeth in a wan smile.

"Miss Laine has been so good to me, I couldn't help getting well in a hurry."

After a short exchange of pleasantries Tom Laine walked out with Mignon close behind him. In the hall, he grinned and patted his daughter's shoulder.

"We won't drown it after all, Nuisance. Go ahead, keep your kitten. It doesn't look dangerous."

Mignon hurried back into the sickroom.

"Father wants you to stay with us, too," she told Molen excitedly. "He entirely approves of your becoming my social secretary."

* * *

The next day the doctor permitted Moleen to get up for an hour. He sent in a special wheelchair, and Mignon took her around to see the penthouse. There were fourteen rooms, and to Moleen, brought up in a Brooklyn tenement, it seemed impossible that anyone could be surrounded by such luxury.

In two more days, Moleen had improved to such an extent that Dr. Meade discharged the nurses and pronounced her practically well.

Then came an amazing week. The cook tried to think of every dish that Moleen might enjoy most of the dishes she had never heard of, much less eaten. Almost overnight she gained five pounds and color began to show in her cheeks.

But the most exciting experience of all was trying on all the lovely clothes in Mignon's wardrobe and admiring herself. It was unbelievable the things Mignon had discarded. She showered Moleen with gowns and hats, making her believe beyond a doubt that she was though with them. They were exactly the same size, even to shoes. It would have been impossible to say who had the most fun — the girl who had never worn lovely things before, or the giver.

Any resentment the servants might have had toward a strange little nobody taken into the district attorney's house disappeared like magic. They had never heard Miss Mignon laugh so much, and they all loved their lonely mistress.

SEES NO CHANCE FOR SHORTAGE OF WATER NOW

Waterworks Head Says City Supply 35 Per Cent Above Maximum Consumption.

There's no chance for a water shortage in Mansfield this year, and no plea will go forth from city officials during drought periods to "don't sprinkle gardens, conserve the supply."

The reason, says James Herlihy, superintendent of the waterworks, is that the city now has an additional 2,000,000 gallons of water available daily at the Hedges street pumping station as the result of diverting the flow of two wells into the reservoir.

"Mansfield has 35 per cent more water available than the daily maximum consumption and the supply is sufficient to meet the demands of any increase in the distribution system for years to come," Herlihy said.

Cites Power Cost Cut.

He added that not only has the city an additional supply of 2,000,000 gallons of water daily by the piping of the wells into the reservoir, but a reduced power cost has resulted at the Hedges station due to the 100 per cent decrease in vacuum on the pumps by the diversion of the flow into the main. Heretofore the flow of water from the wells had been turned into a natural watercourse near the station.

Herlihy pointed out that the drop in vacuum had cut the power cost at the station 100 per cent. One pump now is pumping four wells where two pumps had been used previously on the two wells that were in use.

He explained that while the average daily consumption was approximately 4,500,000 gallons, with a maximum of 6,000,000 gallons during drought periods, that more than 10,000,000 gallons daily could be pumped from the present wells in the city field supply.

GIRLS SNUB DUTCH TREAT

BUTTE, Mont.—(U.P.)—When a questionnaire relative to social relations between high school girls and their escorts made the rounds of all high school girls here, there were two questions to which not a single girl responded. They were: "Do you believe in girls spending money on boys?" and "Do you believe in the Dutch treat, 50-50 on dates?"

FOUR YEARS SPENT ON 82-INCH MIRROR FOR HUGE TELESCOPE

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND — The second largest telescope reflector in existence is being completed at the Warner and Swasey company.

When it is polished the 82-inch mirror will be installed in the McDonald observatory of the University of Texas, atop Mt. Locke in the Davis mountains.

The reflector will be at an elevation of 6,791 feet and will bring closer to human eyes stars 900,000,000 light years distant.

The mirror has taken nearly four years to grind and polish.

The balance of the unit is so perfect that the movement for setting the telescope for position will be driven with a ¼-horsepower motor. The moving parts of the telescope, however, weigh 41 tons.

The slow movement, which will move the telescope at a rate of one revolution every 24 hours, will be obtained from a ¼-horsepower motor.

Astronomers will be able to look into this telescope from three places. The 82-inch mirror's surface will be finished to an accuracy of one-millionth of an inch.

A reflector this size is necessary to gather enough light from the stars to register on a photographic plate.

Photographing a star sometimes requires 6, 8, or 10 hours. This time may be during different nights, days or weeks.

Such photography makes necessary an exact location, which will be obtained by a small observing telescope on the large telescope's side.

The smaller instrument will be used for continual observations to determine that the telescope follows the star exactly. Also so that correction can be made in the mechanical movement.

Changing the frequency of the current utilized for driving the motor will result in varying speed in the telescope—the first time this has been accomplished in so large an instrument.

Credit for this innovation goes to the late E. P. Burrell, director for Warner and Swasey.

FRIDAY, JUNE 24, 1938.

Where's the Depression—and Why?

EIGHTY THOUSAND people pay a million dollars to see a two-minute prize fight . . . seventy thousand crowd into Cleveland's immense stadium to see a double-header baseball game . . . millions of people are on vacation, or are planning vacation trips this summer—by motor, train, boat or plane . . . all over the country homes are being built, private and public construction projects are going forward . . . industry and business is keyed to supply the varied needs of that vast majority of people in the United States who are working and earning enough to supply themselves and their dependents with all necessities and many luxuries.

In the depth of what is called a "depression," that frequently referred to one-third in the United States who are "ill-nourished, ill-clothed and ill-housed" are infinitely better off, and have better prospects for future charitable aid, than have the teeming millions of underprivileged people in any other country in the world.

As was remarked the other day by an observant Mansfield man—there is enough work to be done in the United States to provide indefinite employment for every able-bodied person. There is no predictable saturation point. Nor is there any limit to potential national earnings if individual earning power can be adjusted to absorb maximum industrial and agricultural output.

A statement made some months ago by the London Sphere, after recounting the resources of the United States, bears repeating:

"Responsible leadership which cannot translate such a bulging economy into assured prosperity is destitute of capacity."

The majority in this country who have been so fortunate as to attain measurable success must continue to provide, from their surplus, for those who have been less fortunate—but the aim should be to improve opportunities for the self-sustaining two-thirds, rather than that these two-thirds should be reduced to subsistence level without benefiting the one-third.

There can be more jobs—plenty of jobs—for all who are qualified to do some kind of necessary work—but these cannot be provided unless money and credit are put in action to enliven industry and business, the elements which supply the primary payrolls essential to individual and national well-being.

A minority made this depression—a majority of the people can start the march back to more jobs and vastly improved conditions at any time they conquer the deadening influence of fear and act under the inspiration of confidence in America and its future.

Nations Arm for Self-Protection.

ONE of the discouraging things about the present world armament race is that nations which had gone far along the road to disarmament have been compelled to turn about and march again along the more costly and perilous road to heavy armament. The Scandinavian countries are enlarging their armies and developing their navies as they have not done for many years.

Switzerland, protected in the past by its mountains, has been able to get along without a standing army. Today it is adding to its traditional militia a small permanent force. The modern war preparations of its neighbors seem to make such action necessary. Swiss defense reorganization provides smaller, more mobile divisions, with special attention to machine gun and anti-tank units. It is building up also an air force of 300 planes, and preparing primarily to block highways and ward off enemy aircraft.

The Scandinavians, the Netherlanders and the Swiss all know that military preparations on a big scale take money away from important constructive enterprises. They believe in more rational, thriftier use of their resources. But in the present state of European madness, they are driven to abandon their normal ways in order to protect themselves against frankly aggressive powers.

Congressman Ashbrook's Visit.

ONE of the pleasant phases of Congressman William A. Ashbrook's visit to Mansfield yesterday was the opportunity thus given for many of his friends here to observe the appearance of excellent health in which he returns home from Washington after the more than ordinarily strenuous session of congress in which he actively participated as representative of this district.

During his long period of service in congress Mr. Ashbrook has gained and sustained a reputation as an indefatigable worker in the interests of the people of his own district, as well as having a broad grasp and keen understanding of national and international affairs.

It is also worthy of note that in matters before congress during recent sessions Congressman Ashbrook has evidenced commendable independence of thought, with action based on judgment gained by long and varied experience rather than being influenced by political expediency.

Non-political in character, the talk given by Mr. Ashbrook at yesterday's meeting of the Kiwanis club provided a close-up view of men who have served in the office of president of the United States within the past forty-two years, disclosing their human side in a way that brought better understanding and greater appreciation of the tasks that each performed.

The Seventeenth district, of which Richland county is a part, has been fortunate in the representation it has had in congress at the hands of Mr. Ashbrook.

Report from Youngstown tells of a woman having a baby in the front yard—thus overlooking an opportunity to star in one of the movies that are the vogue of the moment.

It's Roger Babson's idea that salaries of ministers ought to at least equal the pay of building trades workers—but there's still such a thing as supply and demand.

It sometimes seems that only the depths of the depression makes it possible for Cleveland to handle its baseball crowds.

A new kind of potato blight is said to be evidenced by dark circles under the eyes.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—This past congress may go into history for the things it might have done and didn't instead of the things it did, and on that subject we can quote you something by Senator Ashurst of Arizona which is apropos.

At practically any time of the day or night Senator Ashurst can say something apropos of almost anything.

When we approached him with a suggestion that he outline some of the major things the congress left undone he grinned wisely and said:

"The country is always grateful for the legislation congress does not enact."

* * *

Inch Still 8-8ths.

WELL, the country, on that basis, has much about which to be grateful. It did not pass a law to shorten the inch, although certain learned persons urged congress to cut it down by about one ten-thousandths of the width of a pin. It wouldn't have made any difference in the purchase of a yard of cloth but it would have run to something near 35 feet in measuring the distance across the United States.

Anti-lynching legislation went by the boards and so did the proposal to build a ship-canal across the Florida peninsula and to harness the Passamaquoddy tides. These things are not dead, of course. They only sleepeth, and will rise again, come next congress.

Not passed was a bill proposing to take up to 95 per cent of the profits of war and another to conscript capital and industry in the same hour the government sends its men into the battlefield.

If all the bridge bills which did not pass were laid end to end it would keep capitol janitors busy for weeks.

Eight trans-U. S. highways, four each way, will not be built as a result of legislation which did not pass this session. Postponed, too, as a result of legislation which did not pass, is construction of a highway from Seattle to Alaska.

* * *

Too Bad, Oklahoma.

OKLAHOMA, for a time at least, must do without the $125,000,000 its officials asked the treasury to turn over to it as a result of inability to tax Indian lands. The legislation which did not pass explained this amount would have been collected in taxes in the years since opening of the territory to settlers if it had been legal to tax tribal properties.

At this point it is only fair to explain on behalf of Senator Ashurst that he is not against all these things. It is just his belief that the country would rather dodge most legislation even though any individual citizen, when confronted with a particular piece, as likely as not would vote for it in the belief it was for the public weal. People are just like congressmen.

We have not added up the amount of money the country will not have to raise as a result of the legislation which did not pass. But the amount of change the country will have to raise as a result of legislation the 75th congress did pass is upwards of $20,000,000,000, more than two-thirds of which is yet to be gathered in. And that is right smart folding money.

Oppose Putting Beavers to Work

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—The point is raised by numerous correspondents of the interior and agriculture departments that the government has no right to put a big corps of beavers to work on the job of dam building throughout the United States.

Most, if not all of this mail undoubtedly is josh stuff, but it is funny, at that.

Beavers, as we all know, build dams, specializing on small streams, thus creating little lakes, which conserve the country's water supplies. The streams dry up in periods of drouth, but the lakes remain, keeping their respective vicinities productively wet.

At least, that used to be the case. But, with the setting up of our continent, the beavers have been largely exterminated. Hence no more beaver-dams, resulting in a disturbance of nature, with bad irrigational consequences.

Some of our conservationists have hit on the scheme of repatriating the beavers, getting back to the first principles.

* * *

BEAVERS ARE SCARCE

The theory is this:

Beavers now are pretty scarce. Still, they are to be had, a few at a time, at a price of $8 per beaver.

All right. Get about $8,000 worth of beavers to work on a promising brooklet. Soon they will have it dammed. Meanwhile they will have increased and multiplied. Then there will be enough of them to re-colonize in half a dozen rivulets. And so on "ad infinitum."

In four or five seasons the while dried-out portion of the continent will be re-irrigated.

* * *

WORKS OVERTIME

The objection, as urged by faultfinders with the program, is that beavers will take the places of human toilers, who might be employed in dam construction.

Furthermore, the beaver cannot be restricted to a 44 or a 40-hour week.

Nor can he be restricted to a 25 to a 40-cent per hour rate of pay.

In short, he is a "scab."

Worse yet, he hasn't a vote, like the human relief beneficiary.

* * *

COMIC BUT SERIOUS

Letters to this effect, as previously remarked, unquestionably generally are intended to be jocose.

Nevertheless, there is in some of them an undercurrent of dissatisfaction with the administration's relief program—of sarcasm, and disbelief in the New Deal's system.

HE CAN RETIRE NOW

Congressional Librarian Herbert Putnam got the equivalent of his pension just before congress adjourned.

Congressional librarian for 40 years and 75 years old (he increased the library from 1,000,000 to more than 5,000,000 volumes), he could not retire because he had nothing to retire on.

Army mules were being retired to comfortable pastures, but there was no provision for a retiring congressional librarian.

Well, at the last minute, congress fixed it. It created, at $5,000 annually, the office of "congressional librarian emeritus"—which he can quit on—a cut in pay of 50 per cent, but enough for an old savant to quit on, between 70 and 80. It is a fair split with an army mule, anyway.

ALL of US

—By MARSHALL MASLIN

What a Mess!

The front hall is a mess! The door to the clothes closet is half open. The telephone table is littered with opened mail, old newspapers, bills, notices, books. A hat is on the floor, an overcoat is hanging over a chair. A corner of a rug is turned back. The telephone book is flopped open on a chair.

The living room is a mess! The cushions of the couch are disarranged. The magazines on the table are piled up helter-skelter. The chairs are all pushed around. A card table is standing in the middle of the room with ash trays scattered here and there. . . .The fireplace is full of discarded junk and some of the ashes have blown out onto the hearth. A floor lamp is out of place.

The kitchen is a mess! The sink is full of dirty dishes. So is the table in the corner where that man has been eating his breakfast. . . . There are dirty pots and pans on the stove . . . coffee grounds in the sink . . . melon rinds on the drainboard . . . sticky stains on the floor . . . dirty cups and spoons on a chair . . . a dish towel is on the floor. A chair has been knocked over. The door of the cooler is open.

The bedroom is a mess! The bed hasn't been made for a week. Someone has flung a pair of pajamas into a corner. A couple of socks is under the bed. The top of the dresser is piled high with fresh laundry and the wrapping paper is crumpled on the floor. The dresser drawers are all open from four to ten inches. The floor is dusty.

The bathroom is a mess, too! Towels haven't been hung up. Toothpaste hasn't been put away. Shaving materials are lying on the edge of the washbowl. The mirror is dirty. And—what a mess!—there's a ring around the bathtub.

The whole house is like that. Nothing is where it ought to be. Everything is awry. Every detail of the place indicates that a man has been living here, all by himself, while his wife and family are away. Everything shows how that sloppy fellow began to slide down to savagery the very day his wife kissed him goodby.

He'll rush around and get it halfway back to shape before she comes home—but what a mess it is now!

Health Advice

No "One and Only" Treatment.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Newspapers recently carried the report that James Roosevelt had gone to the Mayo Clinic for consultation and had been told that he had a small ulcer of the stomach. He returned later for further observation. "Whether an operation will be undertaken eventually will depend upon response to an ambulant type of treatment. This ambulant type of treatment will include both dietary changes and some medication, as well as restriction of activities which tend to produce physical, nervous and emotional stress."

This judgment is a good enough text for any sermon on modern medical treatment. "When beggars die, there are no comets seen," as Calpurnia said. When lesser men go to clinics, there are no accounts of the advice given them in the newspapers, but they are of the same flesh and blood as the greater, and what is said to the one applies to the other.

The first thing I should like to point out in this text is that there is no treatment that will absolutely be followed out, and that the different methods may be varied. And furthermore the patient is going back to the same doctor, to find out which treatment should be followed.

No One Treatment.

I get letters all the time from people who believe that there is some kind of magic for every ill we have. If you can just find the one remedy for mucous colitis all will be well. He has tried this doctor and that doctor and the other doctor, and tried each treatment for a little while and none of them did any good, so he still is on the hunt for the one and only treatment.

Now there isn't any one and only treatment for most diseases. And often there isn't any final treatment at all: the sick man must resign himself to some discomfort all his life. And there is no benefit in wandering around from doctor to doctor.

Next in this text, it is very much in line with the modern medical attitude that surgery is advised only after other methods have been tried. Not that surgery is a last resort; sometimes it is the immediate and only thing to do. But that in many chronic cases, it itself may not cure completely and hence may be disappointing, and can well be deferred until other methods have been given a chance. At any rate, here in a clinic noted for surgery, it was put off until a later time.

Lastly, I call attention to the fact that several methods of treatment are advised, including attention to the salus of the soul.

This is in line with medical methods that are eternal rather than new. It is especially true of stomach complaints. William Beaumont, our pioneer psysiologist, showed that anger and impatience interrupt the progress of digestion.

It is advice, however, easier to give than to have taken. One wonders how Mr. Roosevelt is going to escape nervous and emotional stress. He is up against the choice of giving up his cure or his career. Lesser men than he, with less to gain, have renounced the cure. And doctors know this.

Is Federal Relief Wrecking

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

CALL the Riot Squad! Man the Bombers! And oil up that sawed-off shotgun! They'll all be needed by the time young Mrs. Freda E. Thompson of San Jose, Cal., has had her say. Says she, speaking to and of her own generation—

"Dear Elsie Robinson—

"America's most urgent need is—AN AMERICAN YOUTH PARTY . . . a party of young patriots whose zeal and loyalty will equal that of the Revolutionary founders of this country . . . those founders who were not only willing to, but actually did, sacrifice their comfort and possessions, and often their very lives, to create this nation.

"Perhaps the old law of nature—"survival of the fittest"—whether in man or animal, is not a very humanitarian philosophy to build a nation on. But it makes for strength—and we must speedily restore the fast dwindling strength and initiative of American Youth or the U. S. A. faces ruin.

"I ACCUSE" the WPA!

WE MUST ABOLISH THIS AND EVERY OTHER FORM OF YOUTH RELIEF, FOR IT IS TURNING THE PRESENT GENERATION OF AMERICANS INTO A BUNCH OF LOAFING, CHISELING, INEFFICIENT, GRAFTERS, whose only thought is how to get something for nothing. What a fertile field they are for crooked politicians who promise them a dole for votes!

The treasure of any nation is its youth. The future of any nation depends on the strength of its youth. Instead of building up the strength of our nation by hardship and discipline, we are turning them into spoiled weaklings—weaklings who will not be able to withstand the stress and strain of today's complicated civilization.

Will a dog hunt food, if he is full? Will a man exert his brain and brawn to get or create a job, if the Government will pay him a maximum wage for a minimum of work? The answer is too obvious.

(Mrs.) Freda E. Thompson, 28.
1512 McKendrie Street
San Jose, Calif.

Abolish the W. P. A.? I wonder. Anyone who made a comprehensive survey of this country at the beginning of the Depression, must admit the necessity of the Relief then given in a most grim emergency. Anyone equally intelligent, who knows the temper and condition of the country today, must feel apprehensive at the thought of what would happen if Relief were suddenly withdrawn. Something is undoubtedly wrong or we would not have 14 million still unemployed after eight years of unprecedented spending. But do YOU believe that abolishing the W. P. A. would settle matters?

That part of the controversy I'll leave to you—and I'll gladly publish as many of your answers, pro and con, as space permits. But I do register a vigorous protest against the statement that Young America is becoming "a bunch of chiselling parasites."

Young American happens to be my pet and personal project. I receive from 800 to 1,500 letters from it daily. And I have moving and abundent evidence that THIS PRESENT GENERATION OF AMERICANS HAS AS MUCH PRIDE, COURAGE, INITIATIVE AND INDEPENDENCE AS ANY THAT EVER LIVED.

There are loafers in every generation. But it is not in the nature of any normal youngster—least of all a young American—to prefer the paltry wage and drab adventure of a W. P. A. project to an independent job with a future. IT'S NO FUN TO BE ON RELIEF . . . and that's an argument which hits every young Yankee where he lives.

Admitted that federal methods may warrant discussion. BUT YOU CAN'T TELL ME THAT MODERN YOUNG AMERICA ISN'T STILL THE SMARTEST AND SPUNKIEST CROP THIS OLD RACE EVER PRODUCED!

What About Smaller Offenses?

It is an accepted belief that the certainty of discovery and the promptness of punishment constitute the greatest deterrent to would-be-criminals. Thanks to the Federal Bureau of Investigation these two desirable ends of law enforcement have become pretty much the custom so far as those shocking, nationally spectacular crimes are concerned.

But what of the continuing smaller offenses against the law? England, to which the student of better enforcement always turns for illustration, has been able to make the certainty of discovery and promptness of punishment apply to nearly every class of crime, large or small. As a result that nation is probably the most law-abiding on the face of the earth.

The United States can well profit by the example in enforcement set there and by its own G-men. States, municipalities and rural communities all could profit by determining to make apprehension and punishment of criminals more certain and more swift. —Columbus Dispatch.

A Toast To Father

Editor's Note—Coming as an aftermath of Father's day observance, an appreciative father sends along the following poem, guaranteed as "original and amateur," which accompanied a gift from his son and which conveys an idea that is sometimes apparently overlooked.

To Father a toast
On this his day.
Here's wishing him peace.
Good health alway.

And here's one more wish
We'd like to add:
Many good golf scores
To make him glad.

A day for Mothers
We've known e'er long,
Neglecting Fathers
Is surely wrong.

For without Fathers,
We'll all agree.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—They can throw out the flowers now and the empty medicine bottles. . . . They can throw out the magazines and the package-wrappings. . . . They can throw out everything; they can even throw me out. . . . But they can't throw out the bills. . . . Not until papa pays 'em.

It costs money to indulge the luxury of being ill. . . . Did you know that, Sugar? . . But that's all right. . . . My Pollyana nature whispers, "That isn't money wasted. . . . That's an investment in good health." . . . I'll probably kick Pollyana down the stairs when the first of the month comes.

But there's no kicking today, no back-talk. . . . I'm getting out of here. . . . Feel fit, too. . . . Little pale around the gills, maybe, and shaky in the underpinnings, but that'll correct itself. . . . And do I need a haircut!

* * *

The thing I had was an old-fashioned case of honest-to-goodness bronchitis. . . . I didn't have a cold, and at no time did I have a sore throat. . . . But the fever was pretty high for a while. . . . It leaves you sort of dopey. . . . And the chills, well, I thought I was going to freeze to death, and knock all my teeth loose chattering.

The nastiest part of it came in an innocent looking little bottle, about four inches high. . . . Just a junior bottle. . . And the liquid was the purest yellow you could imagine. . . . It was so transparent you could read a newspaper through it. . . . Well! If I ever run into any of that stuff again I aim to renege and let nature take its course.

In all there were some 14 bottles, liquids and solids, capsules and pills. Pills! Whew! I don't think I'm built right. . . . I can't swallow pills the way other people can. . . . They hang up in my throat and then slowly disintegrate. . . . But I guess that's better than my disintegrating.

* * *

AND now, like something creeping out of a cocoon, I'm slowly emerging into the sun. . . . I'm going back to the office, for a day or two days and get my desk in order and write some thank-you notes, and then, as I told you the other day, I'm going on that fishing trip with Mel Graff.

He says, "Well, they're here, they're here all right, but you've kicked around enough to know that sometimes you get them and sometimes you don't. . . . I just don't want you to be disappointed if we don't get them."

I won't, Mel. . . . I promise to be good. . . . I won't even sulk if we don't get a strike. . . . But somehow I have a hunch that this is going to be "IT." . . . Somehow I feel it's going to be one of those times you dream about, or read about in the magazines.

And if it is you'll be hearing about it. . . . And if I don't get along to that office I'll be hearing about it.

ASHBROOK GIVES IMPRESSIONS OF 14 PRESIDENTS

Congressman Here to Address Kiwanis, Denies He Will Drop Out of Race.

Congressman William A. Ashbrook from the 17th district and veteran of nine terms in congress, gave members of the Mansfield Kiwanis club at their luncheon meeting yesterday noon his personal impressions of 14 presidents of the United States, seven of whom he has known intimately, over a period of 30 years.

Ashbrook, who is entering another campaign for re-nomination in the August primaries with two younger opponents, looked "fit as a fiddle" after a session of congress that had left many of his fellow workers worn and haggard.

He laughed at reports that he would withdraw from the campaign because of "ill health."

"My opponents said the same thing four years ago," he recalled, fingering a smart blue and rose tie, "they'll have to think up something new. I don't look like a sick man, do I?" and the answer to that question would have to be "No."

Asked about his plan of campaign, Ashbrook said, "I don't have to campaign; I think I did that every day of the past four years when I kept in close touch with thousands of my constituents and tried to represent their best interests and their wishes in congress. I have no platform other than my record of service and my promise to continue that."

Not 'Rubber Stamp.'

Of his votes against the president's plan to pack the supreme court and the bitterly-fought reorganization bill, he said:

"I never promised to be a rubber stamp of the administration. If that's what a voter wants—a representative who will open his mouth only when the strings are pulled—he should cast his vote for Charlie McCarthy."

Ashbrook's talk to the Kiwanians, however, was non-political. His topic was "Our Presidents," and consisted of his own personal memories of the presidents he has known. He was introduced by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, a friend of many years standing.

The first political campaign he remembered, Ashbrook said, was that of Hayes and Tilden in 1876, when he was a youngster of eight. He remembered the bitterness of his elders in discussing the controversial issues of that day.

The first president he met was Benjamin Harrison. Of Grover Cleveland, he said: "He had more backbone and courage than any president I ever knew. Besides, he appointed me postmaster in my home town."

He paid high tribute to William McKinley as "one of the greatest men of the White House . . . a cleaner, higher type man never held the office of president." Theodore Roosevelt, he pointed out was the first real progressive, under whose administration Ashbrook served his first term in congress.

"Teddy Roosevelt was impulsive, impetuous, quick on the trigger . . . and not very much concerned about the constitution of the United States. The Roosevelts," he continued with a twinkle, "are pretty much the same wherever you find them.

Taft 'Most Charming.'

"William Howard Taft was the most charming and lovable man I've ever known in high office. . . . Woodrow Wilson was the most intellectual man who ever came to the White House. He was not a mixer. Alway courteous, cordial, friendly, he still managed to keep about three feet between you and himself. He was, I know, sincere in his desire for peace, and it was the tide of public opinion that carried us into the war. . . . Wilson's life was just as surely sacrificed to the cause of peace as that of any soldier who died in battle."

Ashbrook said that he knew Warren Harding better than any of the presidents, and had been a close friend for years.

"Harding" he said, "looked more like a president than any man who ever filled the office. The day he was innagurated I stood on the steps of the capitol and looked at him and thought: He's the ideal and epitome of every American's conception of a president.' Of the contumely that followed his tragic end, I believed not a word; I don't believe he ever had any guilty knowledge of corruption in his administration. . . . I knew him intimately, traveled with him, had a friend in him, and loved him."

In comparison, he pointed out, Coolidge looked less like a president than any of them, but he was a safe, sound, conservative Yankee.

SHARPEST DROP

Sales Tax Collections Fall Off 43 Per Cent In Week.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Sales tax collections for the week ending June 11 dropped 43 per cent below the corresponding 1937 week, the sharpest decrease for any week this year, State Treasurer C. H. Knisley reported today.

Collections from sales of prepaid tax receipts for the June 11 week were $632,169 compared with $1,115,997 for the same week in 1937.

FEES REACH NEW HIGH

WASHINGTON— (U.P.) — Motorists spent an all-time high of $415,829,000 on registration and similar fees during 1937, the American Petroleum Institute reported. New York drivers paid $52,901,000 to lead all other states.

. . . Ashbrook first met Hoover in Belgium, and of him he said that he came to the White House during dark, direful years, and that he probably did the best that any man could have done under such circumstances.

Ashbrook touched only briefly on Franklin Roosevelt, saying that of all men who have sat in the White House, he is the most humane and the most democratic, adding that his personal charm and magnetism are well nigh irresistible.

Just north of Scotland are the Orkney Isles, the setting for Maribelle Cormack's "Wind of the Vikings." This is the sort of book that you read from cover to cover and regret when you finish it.

Briefly, the story is about a young American girl, Karin Kincaid, who goes to live with her grandmother and uncle, on the tiny island of Eday, one of the Orkney Isles. However, there is far more to the book, than this. Karin's neighbor is young Ian Balfour, and together, they explore the Hiding Hole, where their ancestors used to hide to avoid being pressed into service in the English navy.

What they discover in the cave is so important, that it eventually brings famous Professor Stromberg, from Oslo, Norway, to their little island.

HOUSE, SENATE ACT TODAY ON RELIEF PLAN

$13,500,000 Welfare Building Program Assured, Assembly Eyes Adjournment.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A senate-house conference committee recommended today a poor relief program under which needy counties would receive $6,100,000 in state funds.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — With enactment of a $13,500,000 welfare building program assured, legislative leaders planned action in the house and senate today on a compromise relief plan for the rest of 1938 in the hope of clearing the way within 24 hours of adjournment of the special session.

The conference committee working on disputed relief financing and administrative bills announced that although it had not yet reached an agreement, it expected to submit a report acceptable to both houses this afternoon.

If the report and other pending relief measures are approved, virtually all major legislation will have been disposed of, the house having unanimously passed the welfare building bill. Only senate concurrence in minor amendments was necessary before sending it to the governor.

Provides for Bonds.

The bill allows a state authority to issue $7,500,000 in bonds over a 25-year period against rentals by state departments to match $6,000,000 in federal funds for construction of new penal and benevolent institutions. It was voted through despite doubts of its constitutionality and with the admission it seeks to circumvent the constitutional prohibition against the state incurring more than a $750,000 debt.

Although a relief compromise had not been formulated, it was reported there were two likely possibilities on tax extension for raising the state's share of anticipated receipts. It was understood matching of state funds with local money would be required. The two reported possibilities were:

1. Extension of the .65 per cent utilities excise, beer, malt, wort and admissions taxes through 1941 to raise an estimated $8,000,000 yet this year of which only about $6,000,000 would go where needed because of a formula system for distribution.

2. Extension of the taxes through 1942 to produce an estimated $12,000,000 of which only about $8,000,000 would go to distressed areas.

The dispute on the administrative bill probably will be settled by a division of authority between the state auditor and a relief director appointed by the governor, with the auditor having authority over allocation of funds.

To aid local governments in matching, efforts will be made to pass a bill allowing subdivisions, except school districts, to issue anticipatory notes instead of voted bonds against 70 per cent of delinquent tax collections.

House leaders tentatively agreed to bring up for passage today the Lawrence bill, already approved by the senate, authorizing subdivisions to borrow in anticipation of 1938 and 1939 beer and liquor permit fees for poor relief purposes.

SEEKS BIG LOAN

Pennsylvania Would Purchase New Cars and Engines.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The Pennsylvania Railroad company today asked the interstate commerce commission for authority to issue $6,330,000 of new equipment trust certificates to be used for purchase of new freight and passenger cars and electric locomotives.

The road said the proceeds would be used to purchase 1,008 freight cars, two passenger coaches and 20 electric locomotives at a total cost of not less than $8,440,000.

ROTARIANS PICK HAGER

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—The 12,000 delegates to Rotary international's convention will hear their new president, George E. Hager, Chicago attorney, in an address today and then adjourn. Hager defeated Allen Street of Oklahoma City in last night's election.

GETS REPRIEVE IN NICK OF TIME

Technicality Saves Doomed Man From Indiana Chair.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind.—(AP)—A death row cell in Indiana state prison held today Robert Shaw, 27, who skipped a date with death in the electric chair because of a legal technicality which brought a reprieve from Governor Clifford Townsend just 30 minutes before the scheduled execution last midnight.

Shaw, sentenced to die for the murder of a deputy sheriff, had eaten his "last meal." His execution was stayed by the governor "to give us," the executive said, "an opportunity to clear up this situation."

Warden Alfred Dowd discovered the man had been sentenced to death by Judge Clyde C. Carlin of Lagrange cuonty. There had been no jury in the case, as required by law.

Recovery by Fall Looms as Stock Market Rallies Cheer Industrial Leaders.

depression depths by November unless a sharp upturn halted the downward trend.

Optimistic leaders say the new activity is the upward trend that will arrest the slump.

More Orders Foreseen.

Most other firms, too, have extended their production schedules well into July, with the possibility of new extension later. This extension is a direct result of the steady sales reported in most heavy marketing centers.

Several plants, including the representative Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company factory, have recalled office and shop workers put on five and six-week "payless vacations." The economy moves were rescinded because of the steady sales and the demand for new cars.

Market Continues Spectacular Gains.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The stock market today went into the fifth day of its recovery with another uprush in prices in big dealings.

Leaders at their highs were up $1 to $3 a share on top of the spectacular gains scored since the rise started on Monday. Heavy profit-taking checked the rise by the end of the first hour and brought reactions of about $1 a share on the average from the best prices.

The high speed ticker was again swamped as a new buying wave swept the list from the opening gong. It quickly fell 4 minutes behind and trailed throughout the whole of the first hour.

Railroads Add to Optimistic Outlook.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Major American railroad heads brought cheering news and predictions of a business upturn to the regular meeting of the American Association of Railroads here today.

M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania system; E. S. French, president of the Boston & Maine and Maine Central; F. D. Williamson, president of the New York Central, and others all said there were signs of a definite increase in business.

Clement said the trend of carloadings has moved steadily upward since April.

French said both his roads have made a better showing in the past 30 days than in earlier months of the year and added he expected an even sharper upward swing.

Williamson made a brief informal statement:

"I believe there will be some business pick up this fall, but not immediately, however, the New York Central is now employing 22,000 less men than it was a year ago.

L. W. Baldwin, chief operating officer of the Missouri-Pacific, commented:

"Things are looking some better, and the pick-up in the last ten days has been sharp. Crops are excellent, although we do not yet know when they will start moving. I believe the Kansas wheat crop will run about 160,000,000 bushels, despite the government estimate of 190,000,000."

L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central, said:

"I hope impending wage conferences will speedily be concluded so we can put more men to work. Every dollar saved in wages will be used to put more men to work."

George B. Elliott, president of the Atlantic Coast Line, commented:

"I haven't seen any particular change of business, or sentiment, although I have read there is a change. Car loadings so far this year are 12.9 per cent under last year. However, gross revenues have been maintained on my road at a fair rate because of the heavy shipment northward of early vegetables and citrus fruits.

WAITRESS FINDS ENGAGEMENT RING – FIANCE, DAD ARE HAPPY

The world may be going to the dogs but there are still a lot of honest people in the world in the opinion of Joseph T. Hughes, Philadelphia, and his son Ben. One of them is Helen Slota, a waitress at the Southern hotel.

The elder Hughes, who had been in Piqua, was on his way to Cleveland where he was to meet his son who will take the lady of his heart to the altar this summer. The elder Hughes had purchased a diamond engagement ring and was to turn it over to the son in Cleveland.

But when he looked for it in his wallet, it was gone. He remembered that the last place he had opened the wallet was at the Southern hotel here where he had stopped on the way to Cleveland.

He telephoned the hotel, and much to his relief, was told that the ring had been found on the table by Miss Slota, who had turned it in to the desk. The ring was a valuable one, with a large diamond and two small ones—something that a less honest person might have decided to keep, and say nothing.

The younger Hughes came to Mansfield today, retrieved the ring and left a reward for Miss Slota.

PAPERS CONFER ON STRIKE-PAY

Pittsburgh Newspapers Clear All But One Barrier In Walk-Out Negotiations.

(By United Press)

PITTSBURGH — Publishers of the Pittsburgh Press and Sun-Telegraph and leaders of various craft unions in their plants conferred today over demands for strike-pay after the newspapers and striking business office employes reached contract terms.

A contract which granted pay increases to the business office employes but did not contain a closed shop clause, the principal cause of the strike last Friday, was signed late yesterday by the managements of the Press and Sun-Telegraph and officials of the Newspaper and News Distributors Office Workers union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

The publishers announced that the new contract was contingent upon successful negotiation of demands by mechanical and editorial employes that they be paid while the papers suspended publication during the strike.

Until those demands are settled, the management announced, the Press and Sun-Telegraph will not publish. The newspapers, before the strike last Friday, announced no salaries would be paid if they were forced to suspend publication as a result of the business office employes strike.

Mechanical department employes refused to pass picket lines the strikers placed at entrances to buildings of the two papers. It was then that the management issued announcements of their inability to publish. Editorial employes, however, appeared at their desks as usual.

CITY, TOWNSHIPS IN WPA PLANS

Engineer Works Out Details of Blanket $1,000,000 County Program.

Mansfield and Shelby and seven of the county's 18 townships had been included today in the proposed $1,000,000 Richland county WPA propect, as County Engineer Howard C. Sword completed details of the huge blanket program.

County sub-divisions were invited to participate in the program after state WPA officials urged that the county be more specific in its demands for federal funds for work relief projects.

Proposed projects in Mansfield alone would provide work for three months for more than 50 men, while the entire program will give 979 men jobs for a year, Sword said.

Although no figures as to sponsor contributions were available, each sub-division which shares in the works program will be required to pay its share of the total cost.

Mansfield's proposal calls for work on curbs and gutters, sidewalks, storm sewers and parks improvements.

Approximately 20 miles of roads in seven townships would be included in the proposed improvements, with trustees contributing a part of the cost. Townships which have asked to be included in the project are Madison, Weller Mifflin, Worthington, Butler, Washington and Cass.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

WHEN I drive to town or go on errands through the country at night, I take the narrow, graveled country roads. Here I am not disturbed by heavy traffic, nor do I have to look on glaring signs at every turn. The countryside is quiet, speeding cars are absent.

Here I feel the real tang of early summer, and get the unadulterated fragrance of the wayside fields. The road crosses a rustic bridge above a tinkling stream and winds through a labyrinth of overhanging trees. I hear the house dogs bark and dimly see the cattle lying near the pasture gate, at rest. After 10 o'clock most of the lights in rural dwellings are blown out, and the quiet seems almost severe.

The edges of the road are bordered by high grass and bushes. Here the wild wood creatures, startled by the bright headlights, crouch low then, frightened by the movement of the oncoming car, dart across my path directly in the light, and are silhouetted for an instant before they are lost again in the wilderness of the roadside.

One night last week a rabbit jumped from his hiding place, ran a short distance in front of me, then hopped to the side then in front again. He kept this up for half a mile. I saved the little fellow's life by driving slow, and was interested much in closely observing his quick movements, and the way the light reflected from his eyes, like two live coals, when finally he stopped and turned to look.

I saw a wise old 'possum with pointed snout upon the ground, slowly feel his way across the uneven path. Along the damp low lands the muskrat ventured out, his scaly bare tail making a furrow in the sand. The long snouted mole, unconscious of danger, the frisky field mice and even sometimes the fast bounding weasel have appeared before the glaring headlights.

I drive slowly through the country lanes and even then feel like a gross intruder to disturb the nightly rambles of our little people of the fields and marshes.

that he would go to Columbus tomorrow in an effort to obtain a release on the project which would immediately place 100 men to work, with another 100 to be added as soon as the job was under way.

Several thousand feet of pipe, furnished by the federal government as part of its contribution has been delivered on Cook road. Styert said the contracts have been let for the city's share of the materials and another 9,000 feet of pipe is expected to arrive in Mansfield within a few days.

Council Tuesday night cleared the last hurdle in financing the city's share when it approved the issuance of $64,000 in motgage revenue bonds against the waterworks department. City Auditor Paul Kelley said the funds would be forthcoming from the Richland Trust company, which bought the bonds, within the next few days.

The program which is designed to bolster the pressure in the Woodland area includes the construction of a 150,000-gallon elevated tank and booster pumps at the reservoir, a 20-inch high capacity main to serve the mercantile area to run from the reservoir to Lexington avenue and Blanche street by the way of Cook road.

Dilgard's park at Long Lake, located between Loudonville and Wooster, on route 3, 1 mile east of junction 179 and 3, is now open for picnics, swimming privileges, boating and fishing. Cabins are available also on a renting basis.

When touring to different resorts, stop at Long Lake park and see what is in store for you. There is a sandy beach, with pure, clean, spring fed water which has been tested by state authorities and found to be absolutely pure. Therefore no diseases can be contracted from this water.

Amusements have been added to the beach, including water wheel, slide for kiddies, new regulation boards and high dive. Floodlights are installed for night swimming. To insure safety there is protection for bathers. Experienced and very capable lifeguards are on duty every afternoon and evening. Sheltered picnic tables are available, and safe drinking water.—(Paid Advt.)

ings were washed away. Six persons were reported missing.

Five members of the same farm family were drowned when their home was swept away by the flood waters. Their bodies were found in a group, buried in silt 10 miles down the stream.

Despite the heat, no prostrations were reported in the Mansfield area. One man was dead in Cincinnati, a victim of the heat.

Gardens and farm crops in Richland county were beginning to need rain today, but farmers saw a prospect of a dry spell as repeated signs of rains failed to materialize in the past week. A light shower fell in Mansfield last night, but it was of no benefit to crops.

About Miss Carroll.

Madeliene Carroll, who co-stars with Henry Fonda in "Blockade," an impressive story of the Civil war in Spain, is one of the very few actresses in pictures who has the same personality off the screen as she has on it. She came to Hollywood labeled the most beautiful blond in all England but she had lived that down with her ability as an actress. She is not one of the "beautiful but dumb" variety. She had an A. B. from Birmingtam university, England, and had taught school before she ever tried for the stage. She is quiet, cultured, with family background, and a woman of the world. In this story of Spain she is remindful of the Eleanor Mercein heroine who married a Spaniard. "Blockade" runs through Saturday at the Ohio.

A Money-Maker.

When "Birth of A Baby" closes its Mansfield engagement at the Madison tomorrow night, it will have played to better business than many a star-studded film. While its business here wasn't spectacular, it was uniformly good and did much better box office business than "Three Comrades," one of the finest pictures in many months. The picture is reputedly making a lot of money all over the country, and it is quite possible that its financial success will lead to making other pictures that are equally frank and daring. Even "educational" pictures are at the mercy of the box office.

Stumbles Into Action.

A traveling doctor roaming the country in a trailer picks up a youngster whose father is lost and together they try to find him. But before they have accomplished that, they stumble into a bandit's nest, uncover a plot to rob the ranchers of their land, are blamed for a hold up and a few other incidentals, in "Romance of The Rockies," the action film at the Majestic today and Saturday. Tom Keene and Bill Cody, jr., play the leading roles. The feminine heart interest is contributed by Beryl Wallace, not so long ago a show girl with the Earl Carroll Vanities "Highway Patrol" with pretty Jacqueline Wells and Robert Paige is the other feature.

Inheritng Trouble.

Inheriting a ranch sounds simple enough, but when an unsolved murder mystery goes with it, it has its drawbacks But Bob Steele meets them with his usual fast thinking and even faster riding and shooting. He not only solves the murder, takes over the ranch and routs his enemies, but marries the girl his rival wants. Louise Stanley, seen frequently in Western films, is Steele's leading lady in "Thunder in The Desert," Ritz thriller for Friday and Saturday. A romance of the screen and the footbal field blossoms in "Start Cheering," which has any number of stars: Jimmy Durante, Joan Perry, Professor Quizz, Hal LeRoy, Jimmy Wallington, the Three Stooges, Walter Connelly and several others.

BRITAIN WILL PAY WAR DEBT, PUBLISHER SAYS

Beaverbrook, 'Press Baron,' Says Settlement Coming; War Risk Removed.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lord Beaverbrook (born Max Aiken in the village of Maple, Ontario, in 1879) is owner of the London Daily Express, which has a daily circulation of nearly two and three-quarter millions. His other two newspapers are the London Evening Standard and the Sunday Express.

By WEBB MILLER
(Copyright, 1938)
(By Central Press)

LEATHERHEAD—Lord Beaverbrook, owner of the world's biggest daily newspaper, predicted today that Great Britain would eventually liquidate her $5,308,000,000 war debt to the United States, and urged that Great Britain and the United States draw closer together because of the unsettled state of Europe.

"We shall one day reach a point where we can wipe out the deficit on terms satisfactory to American taxpayers," the famous British "press baron" said in reply to one of several questions submitted to him by the United Press at his country home here.

'Couldn't Pay.'

"Public opinion in Great Britain never has been hostile to the United States or critical of that republic," he said. "The war debt settlement strained our relations because of the opposition that sprang up in the press here against making the payments. That opposition was based on the knowledge, amounting to certainty, that we could not discharge the obligation. We knew we could not pay and we knew there was no use trying to pay."

Regarding the prospects of war, Lord Beaverbrook said he believed "war risk" was remote at present, and that war in Europe would not necessarily mean a world war.

"It is true," he said, "that Britain stands nearer to the danger zone. That is admitted. But submarines and airplanes are just as menacing to America today on account of the extension of their range of effectiveness as they were to Great Britain when the last war broke out.

"Britain, of course, should do everything possible to get into closer relations with the United States. It must be obvious that the United States will be strengthened in relation to the same menace (war in Europe) if there are closer relations with Great Britain."

Replying to a question concerning the possibility of the United States becoming involved or aiding with war materials in a conflict between the totalitarian and democratic states of Europe, Lord Bearverbrook said:

No Clear Cut Division.

"I cannot answer that because I do not believe in war between totalitarian regimes and democracies. For instance, Russia, an ally of France, is a totalitarian state. There are no real signs of a clear-cut division between the two philosophies of government. Besides, I hope that both the United States and Great Britain stay out of the next war. A war in Europe does not necessarily mean a world war."

Returning to the subject of the war debt, he observed that British public opinion was far more friendly to the United States today than during the "Uncle Shylock" phase when the question was stirring up bitterness.

"The debt had been contracted in an hour of peril, and Great Britain had lent far more to foreigners for which payment had been forgiven," he said.

"Our position was like that of a bank in a crisis which is unable to meet its obligations.

"We know that Americans have a better understanding of our troubles since the United States has been forced by circumstances to abrogate its gold clause.

Many British holders of American bonds, including myself, contracted to purchase such bonds for repayment in gold. And we make no complaint now because repayment is made in American currency.

NEST IN MONEY

Ohioan Finds Three $5 Bills In 'Home' of Rodents.

MALTA, O.—(U.P.)—Gus Love reported today (and three neighbors confirmed) that he found three $5 bills lining the nest of a pair of field mice in his garage.

One bill, Love said, had only a corner bitten off. The other two were torn into several pieces but could be redeemed by the U. S. treasury. Love didn't know where the mice got the bills in these hard times.

STORK DOUBLES BACK

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—(U.P.)—The stork visited the same home twice in one day when Mrs. Russell Bean and Mrs. Lloyd Dixson, sisters, gave birth to cousins.

Japanese Exports Get Telling Blow By World Boycott

GENEVA — (INS) — Japanese goods have been boycotted throughout the world, and the United States is one of the principal boycotting countries.

According to these statistics Japanese exports to the United States have declined continually being 28 per cent less in December, 1937; 25 per cent less in January and 52 per cent less in February.

Japanese exports in general were 18 per cent less in February 1938 than in 1937.

Although no figures are given for Asian import of Japanese goods it is reported that they have decreased considerably despite native preference for Japanese goods because of their low price.

'Fireside Chat' Precedes President's Tour to West

TALKS TO U. S. ON RECOVERY PLAN TONIGHT

Leaves on Junket to Ohio, 4 Other States July 7; Plans Cruise on Pacific.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt returned to the capital today to make a fireside report to the nation tonight on pump-priming recovery prospects before swinging westward on a vacation journey of political significance.

Mr. Roosevelt will talk tonight at 9:30 p. m., EST, to a coast-to-coast audience in what is expected to be a report on the state of the nation after 10 months of dangerous accelerated business depression.

At White House Few Days.

After a long week-end at his mother's Hyde Park estate, he will remain here for only a few days. On July 7 he will begin a trans-continental journey touching Kentucky, Ohio, Oklahoma, Colorado, California and other states where New Deal colors are flying in hot primary contests. From some California port the president will embark aboard a cruiser to fish in Pacific waters before returning to the east coast by way of the Panama Canal.

The recovery process, moving forward a year ago, was checked in August, 1937, and the trend of business was reversed, scrapping New Deal economy plans and compelling new resort to pump-priming appropriations. As Mr. Roosevelt prepares to address the nation, statisticians estimate that the 1937-38 depression has thrown 3,300,000 out of work, that well more than 11,000,000 persons now are unemployed and that the load probably will increase before it lightens.

Sees Estimates Exceeded.

With seven days of this fiscal year to go, the net treasury deficit promises to exceed January estimates by $250,000,000 and receipts probably will be $180,000,000 or so under the estimate of six months ago. But the deficit trend is downward this year compared to last, federal income is greater and federal spending less. The prospect for the next fiscal year, beginning July 1, is for another upward movement of deficit figures.

The president's talk tonight will follow two busy days of the PWA in which officials have approved $279,000,000 worth of projects, of which the treasury contributed $124,000,000 in grants and $14,000,000 in loans for 1,146 separate undertakings.

Win Fight to Save Life of Girl With Paralyzed Lungs

GANADO, Ariz.—(U.P.)—A doctor and three nurses saved the life of a seven-year-old child by applying artificial respiration for 15 hours while two men drove 700 miles at breakneck speed to bring an "iron lung."

The child is Nazabeth Lee, a member of the Navajo tribe. She was in the mechanical respirator today and physicians believed she had a good chance to live.

She fell off a fence on the Navaja reservation on Sunday. Yesterday morning both lungs unexpectedly became paralyzed.

Dr. C. G. Salisbury ordered a nurse to apply manual respiration. The nearest mechanical respirator or "iron lung" was in St. Joseph hospital in Phoenix, 350 miles away. He sent Albert and Golden Farr, brothers, in a truck for it. Dr. Salisbury and his three nurses, working in relays, had forced the child's lungs to function until the 'lung' arrived.

Up and Down THE STREET

On the surface, there is no connection between a Republican campaign and the movie, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," but David S. Ireland, Republican central committeeman from the First ward, tied the two together, anyway. To the tune of "Heigh Ho," a hit song from the show, Ireland wrote a campaign song which says uncomplimentary things about the Democrats and the New Deal. The tune will be used by Republicans in their county campaign this summer.

Miss Mildred Armstrong, head of the county's department of aid for dependent children, has found a man who passed the supreme test of honesty, she contends. When she went to her car parked near the courthouse she found a note on the seat which read: "I damaged one of your fenders, and if you'll call me at Butler I'll be glad to pay for the damage." The explanation was found, Miss Armstrong said, even before she noticed that the fender had been dented.

Mansfield addicts of mystery and detective stories probably have a lot of magazines lying around that will be burned later, but Mrs. Margaret Adams, city tuberculosis nurse, has a use for them. She wants them for her "T. B." patients who are in private homes and who must spend most of their time in bed. Detective stories, she points out, are particularly good to make a patient forget his or her own troubles. She'll call for them of you notify the health department in the City building.

Just about every Mansfielder planned to hear the broadcast of the Louis-Schmeling fight the other night, but many missed it because of its unexpected briefness. Included among those who missed it were the Mansfield men who drove out into the country to hear the account of the bout on their auto radio, figuring they could eliminate much of the static. Not satisfied with the reception of the first minute of the fight, they dialed another station and missed the knockout.

Capt. Bell Denies New Rumor He'll Quit Police Post.

Captain T. M. Bell has been a member of the Mansfield police department for the past 29 years, and for the last seven years reports have cropped up regularly that he is going to resign.

The latest one today brought the statement from the veteran officer that "there's nothing to it."

"I'm going to stay right on the job until I've put in 30 years," the captain said. "That will be next May 20, but until then I'll be right here on the job."

But after May 20, 1939, Capt. Bell, who has been eligible for retirement for the last seven years, will lay aside his badge and gun and "take life easy."

COURT PONDERS EFFINGER PLEA

Lima Appeals Judges Take Testimony in Black Legion Fight Under Advisement.

(By United Press)

LIMA—The third district court of appeals today had under advisement the appeal of Virgil H. Effinger, former Black Legion officer, from an order extraditing him to Michigan authorities on charges of criminal syndicalism and possession of explosives.

After a two-hour hearing of highly technical arguments, the court announced that a decision would be given promptly.

Effinger was involved in an investigation of Black Legion activities in Michigan two years ago. He disappeared during an extradition hearing in Columbus and did not surrender to Lima officials until last fall. After a common pleas court hearing last November, he was ordered extradited.

C. C. Miller, Effinger's counsel, said appeal would be made to the Ohio supreme court and the U. S. supreme court in event of an adverse decision.

Effinger contended affidavits and informations against him were based "purely on information and belief," and not on fact.

Presiding Judge Charles A. Guernsey several times warned attorneys to quick bickering and stay within the record when they mentioned Dayton Dean and other Black Legion figures.

A 67-page bill of exceptions to the order of Judge E. E. Everett was filed by Effinger.

SETTLEMENT ENDS 3-DAY COURT FIGHT OVER PLYMOUTH ESTATE

The three-day trial of a suit contesting the will of the late Charles E. Heath of Plymouth ended abruptly in common pleas court late yesterday when the plaintiffs and defendant reached an agreement through their attorneys.

More than 20 witnesses had been examined and the case was almost ready to go to the jury when the settlement was announced.

Although attorneys declined to reveal the terms of the agreement, they said the two grandchildren of Mr. Heath, who filed the action, would share in his estate. Under terms of the will, the entire estate was to go to a son, Earl Heath of Plymouth.

Estimates of the value of Mr. Heath's property ranged from $25,000 to $150,000, depending upon the value of securities, relatives said.

Plaintiffs in the suit, which named Earl Heath defendant, were Everette Heath Krueger and his sister, Margot Anne Krueger, of Shaker Heights. They had contended that Mr. Heath was unduly influenced by his son in making the will.

Mr. Heath was an executive of the Fate-Root-Heath company, Plymouth. He died in May, 1937, a few weeks after he made his will.

Judge C. U Ahl of Crawford county heard the case at the request of the defendant.

The plaintiffs were represented by Attys. George Blecker and Van C. Cook. Representing the defendant were Attorneys Weldon and Huston, Mansfield, and Kruger, Gorman and Davis of Cleveland.

4 OTHERS HURT WHEN OIL WELL BOMB EXPLODES

New Mexico Banker, 7 Workmen Killed While Unloading Nitro From Truck.

(By Associated Press)

HOBBS, N. M.—Public and private investigators opened inquiries today into the mysterious premature explosion of an oil well time-bomb, which dealt horrible death to eight persons, one a prominent New Mexico financier, and injured four others.

The blast took the lives of George A Kaseman, 69-year-old Albuquerque, N. M., banker, and seven oil workers whom he was watching yesterday as they prepared to "shoot" a well in the rich Monument field, about 20 miles southwest of Hobbs.

Kaseman, prominent in New Mexico business circles for 47 years, was president of the Albuquerque National Trust and Savings bank, and the Albuquerque and Cerrillos Coal company.

He was financially interested in the Monument well and had come with a party of friends to witness the "shooting" operation, designed to increased its production.

Charged With Nitro.

The bomb, loaded with nitroglycerin and operated by an automatic timing mechanism, was to have been lowered into the well, where it might shatter the underground rock structure and allow the oil to flow more freely.

Instead, it exploded with a terrific detonation as the workmen removed it from a truck.

Killed were Kaseman, H. A. Greer, gauger for the shooting crew, J. T. Broughton, derrickman; Forrest Huston and Charles Wrigley, rigmen; V. P. Peck, the shooter, and Alex Blair, shooter's helper.

Jack Starkey, superintendent of the Two-State Drilling company, died shortly before midnight in a Hobbs hospital, six hours after the explosion All the dead but Kaseman were residents of Hobbs.

Hospital attendants said all the injured were expected to live. They were Fred Luthy, vice president of the Albuquerque National bank, who lost his left eye; Herman Crile, Roswell, N. M., attorney; J. B Headley, Roswell geologist, and Ole Johnson, rigman.

A "hunch" saved the life of Norman Dollar, rig fireman.

"I saw them monkeying with that bomb and I had a hunch something would happen, so I started running," he said. "I got scarcely 50 feet before it went off."

A coroner's inquest was to be called today. Representatives of the "shooting" firm also began an investigation.

3 WEEKS LEFT

Deadline for Registering for Primary Is July 12.

Less than three weeks remain in which to register to be eligible to vote at the Aug. 9 primary, county election board officials warned today. The deadline for registering is July 12, or 28 days preceding the primary election.

Mansfielders who have neglected to vote in the last two general elections or who will reach the legal voting age of 21 before the next election must register before the deadline to become eligible electors, A. F. Porter, clerk of the election board, said.

Change of address also must be reported to the election board, Porter said, since a voter must be a resident of a precinct for at least 20 days before he can cast his ballot. Thirty days residence in the county is necessary to establish eligibility.

Registrations are received at the county board of elections office in the basement of the courthouse.

GEN. JOHNSON:

Will Rooseveltian Luck Bring Us Recovery – and Just Before the Election?

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—The foremost American question is, "when will this depression cease?" The president says that a few raindrops of improvement may mean a much-needed shower—which is decidedly more conservative than prosperity hovering around the corner. But it is a lot better than such official pessimism as Mr. Wallace's occasional outgivings on the farm prospect—which have been the equivalent of crying, "rotten fish for sale."

Joe Kennedy, from the vantage point of months of absence from the scene, thinks we have about cried ourselves out.

The administration is well known to be hoping highly that its great outpouring of the public's money will bring a distinct revival just in time for the November election. They "planned it that way." But will it?

* * *

It will if the very spending itself and other governmental acts and attitude don't frighten timid, hiding, private money back into its hole. That is an "if" so uncertain that nobody can call the turn with anything more than a guess. It depends on the flux of mass opinion—crowd psychology. Nobody can either time or measure that.

The president quotes that great seer, Danny Roper, that national income this year will be 60 billions as against about 70 billions last year. Mebbeso. It is a lag of 30 billions below what we need for bare lean normality of business without increased population.

* * *

Three billions of public spending is the most that could be dished out this year. That can't make up for a lag of 30 billions or even for the lag of 10 billions between this and last year. Nothing under the sun can make up that lag except a return of private spending, that doesn't mean just big investment money. It means an end of too much caution and saving against fear or disaster by every one of the 130,000,000 Americans who has two nickels to rub against each other.

Those millions of cautions are part of what Joe Kennedy calls our "crying ourselves out." But the reason for the "crying" so far as big money is concerned, is fear of government. It is not, as the administration contends, a "sit-down strike" of capital. It is a cowering of capital under bludgeoning of politics.

* * *

So much for the minus signs in this guessing contest. There are a few plus signs—for us, at least—the president's "few drops of rain." One of them is a great and nearly general European drought and a tendency in war-threatened countries to lay up surplus stocks of commodities — including farm products. That should eventually offset the price-depressing effect of our probable bumper crops.

There are some faint glimmerings of hope in very recent seasonal sales figures and even the vital automobile pattern isn't as gloomy as it was a month ago.

* * *

More important than all of this is the fundamental fact that this country is just too big and wealthy and has too much essential "umph" for even the most idiotic government gyrations to keep it down for long.

Stocks become exhausted. Necessaries are consumed. Human needs and appetites continue. After a sufficient period of deprivation, action simply has to begin. Rising activity begets rising acticity and even the Third New Deal can't stop it. The difficulty is in timing it. This column joins the president in declining to try that. But here is a rabbit's-foot hunch. The Third New Deal must have improvement for the November elections. Mr. Roosevelt is so lucky that, if he fell into a well, he would land on a buried treasure.

Hollywood Speaks---

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Things (this is Maxie Baer's theme song nowadays) look good.

Maxie, now an old man of 28, is making his movie comeback. Five years ago, remember, he was a star. He did a popular feature with Myrna Loy called "The Prizefighter and the Lady." At least a couple of people—who happened to be his director and producer—saw at the time Maxie's possibilities as an actor. But other things intervened. Maxie, after his debut as a star, forgot this high calling and went out to annex the world's championship in a coarser field.

Unfortunately, though, he was no longer in pictures, he kept on acting like a bad actor, starring in night clubs instead of the ring, and generally behaving like the village cut-up. It's an old sad story.

* * *

But Maxie is trying to give it a happy ending. He's starring in 'Fisticuffs," one of Pete Smith's sports specialties. And he isn't nearly as frisky as he used to be in movie circles. I caught him going quite seriously about the business of impressing a photographically effective blow on a sparring partner, with suggestions for Director Dave Miller and all the earnestness of a regular actor—during the "take."

And a little serious talk, too, between shots.

"See," he said, "everything looks good. Here I am wearing the same white silk trunks I had in 'Prizefighter and the Lady.' I've still got the same white silk robe the studio gave me—only it's full of autographs now, from the president's on. After this picture's done, I'm going up to Lake Tahoe and train for the Louis fight. Finish a picture—train at Tahoe—win. That's the way it worked last time, and it'll be that way again. Best of all, I feel right HERE"—indicating his forehead. "And this time—well, I've got a fine wife and a fine kid and why shouldn't I do it?"

* * *

Lest this be too depressing talk, let's hasten to report that there's plenty of clowning left in the boy, and that Maxie isn't all modesty and shrinking violet. He was casting, for instance, a few picturesque remarks on the staying ability of Champion Joe Louis, with Dave Miller and other sideliners as antagonists in some good-natured heckling.

"Louis won't stay champ," said Maxie, "and when he's through he's going to stay through. Now me, I can come back. I'm all right—and can I help it if I'm not a Nazi?"

"There's one thing about Louis that's all right, too, don't forget," a sideliner reminded.

"And what's that?" said Maxie, taking an 1890 pugilistic pose and grimacing romantically at the camera.

"He's champ," was the crushing retort.

Maxie danced up the steps into the ring. "So was I," he flung back.

The ring was roped on three sides only, the camera side open.

"And this," said Maxie, "is the kind of ring I've been looking for all my life. Open—so I can get out when I wanna!"

There has been quite a fuss lately about the shortage of new features for theaters and the rash of revivals and re-issues. But one theater man assures us that he has no trouble whatever getting features to fill his screen.

"If only," he wails, "I could get a few people to fill the seats."

Marriage Of Children Leaves Gap

By VIRGINIA LEE

A RECENT letter from a young wife who, with her husband, is living with her people and wants her own home, made me think a good deal concerning this problem of our children marrying and setting up for themselves.

It is hard on parents who have made companions of their young folk and the young folk's pals. There comes a time when all the children are married, maybe some of them living far away. The older folk are left alone, and sometimes to their surprise, and often to their dismay, they find the home is a too quiet place where few things happen and where interest in life seems to have fled with the children.

The young couples come home occasionally, it is true, but they have their own interests and friends, and they don't need their parents—and parents who have been for years the hub about which their households revolve, feel strangely lonely and deserted.

When children are small, fathers and mothers often look at each other and think "won't it be wonderful when the children are grown, educated and away, and we have just each other again as in our honeymoon days? We will be free to do this and that, to go about and see things." And then when they are free, they discover, to their dismay, that "being free" to go and come has lost its allure, and each other's companionship, while still sweet, is not complete. It is a trying time for parents and they are quite apt to feel that their lives are over, and they might just as well "sink into the silent tomb," with Dickens hero, Mr. Toots of "Dombey and Son."

That Let-Down Feeling.

I wonder how many people reading this column have felt this let down after they have married off the last child and "have the home to themselves"

What can parents do to adjust themselves to this change in their lives? If they have cultivated a few outside interests all along, those help. They can travel if they have the time and money; they may like to read together, to get out to walk or ride, to explore the country. They will, of course, cultivate their old friends, although sometimes friends of their own age will suddenly seem pretty dull.

Finding new interests, maybe taking up some study, will help. To cultivate an interest in other young people and do nice little things for them, also is helpful. It takes time to adjust oneself to such a change, but it can be done, although I am afraid life never looks quite as interesting to parents as it did when there was the noise and confusion and the extra work in the home—as well as the laughter, chatter and liveliness of "children in the house."

HERMITS—One and one-half cups brown sugar, one-half cup butter, two eggs, three tablespoons sour milk, three cups flour, one teaspoon soda, one cup currants, one cup raisins, three-fourths cup nut meats, one tablespoon cinnamon and a little nutmeg. Drop on pan or cookie sheet and bake in 350-degree oven.

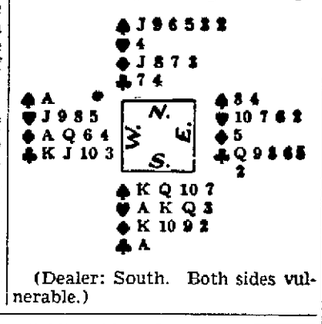
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

FOUR-CARD MAJORS

AMONG EVEN the top flight players you can find faddists who refuse to make an opening bid on a four card major suit, even if they hold two such suits. If the hand is too strong to pass, they will start with a short suit minor bid or a funny looking no trumps.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

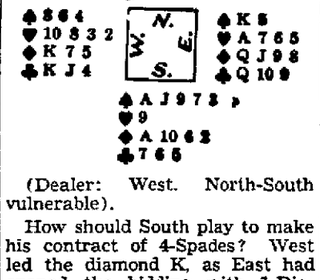
Later on, however, they enthusiastically bid their four-card majors, having once warned their partners about their brevity. Pretty fair arguments can be made for this theory, but none whatever for carrying the idea to the extreme and never bidding a four-card major. That tantrum amounts to ruling out the nicest of all normal trump fits—four opposite four.

This deal arose in a duplicate and at all tables but one the contract ended in four spades by the North-South players. At one table, the South player, because of his theory that four-card majors should never be bid originally, started bidding with 1-Diamond. West doubled this, North passed and East called 2-Clubs. South now bid 2-Hearts, which West also doubled, and North put in a bid of 3-Diamonds. Possibly because of the power shown by West, South now hesitated about showing the spade suit, and as a result they missed game.

When South remonstrated with his partner for not having shown the spades, North's retort was that if South held five diamonds and four hearts, which his bidding indicated, it was hardly likely that he held support for spades.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable).

How should South play to make his contract of 4-Spades? West led the diamond K, as East had opened the bidding with 1-Diamond.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, June 25.

According to the leading astral influences, this day may be one of indulgence and extravagance, with some peculiar entanglements of a social as well as business character. Indulgence may lead to a harrying debt or complication. There is need for discretion also in private activities of a social nature.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a very lively and pleasant year in which there may be a rather perilous outlay of funds, either in merrymaking or in some alluring speculative enterprise, possibly sport or athletics.

A child born on this day may be lively, pleasure-seeking, popular and given to indulgence and extravagance in a showy and expansive manner.

Today's Recipes.

NOODLE RING WITH CHICKEN—One box noodles, two and one-half cups chicken stock, thickening, two beaten eggs, one cup celery, chopped fine; two teaspoons salt, cayenne, one-half cup celery water, three tablespoons flour, three tablespoons butter, one chicken, one pound mushrooms, two cups milk. Boil noodles five minutes, drain and pour cold water over them. Cook celery in water 15 minutes. Add half a cup celery water to a cup and a half of the chicken stock and thicken with paste of butter and flour. Season, remove from fire, add eggs slowly, then celery, and stir in noodles. Pour into buttered ring mold set in pan of hot water. Bake in slow oven one hour. Turn out on hot platter and fill center with creamed chicken and mushrooms made from a four-pound chicken boiled till tender, then cut up, and mushrooms steamed in double boiler in a quarter cup water till tender. Fold into a cream sauce made of the butter, flour, salt, pepper, milk, the other cup of chicken stock and the mushroom liquor. Serves eight generously.

SARDINE SANDWICHES—One can sardines, juice of one lemon, one teaspoon melted butter, French mustard. Drain and skin fish and rub into paste, working the teaspoon melted butter in gradually. Add lemon juice and pepper and mustard to taste. Butter thin slices of bread and spread.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

My guess was right. The family—my husband, my mother-in-law, my small son and his cousin—were gathered in the library before the grate in which Jim had lighted what Mother Graham calls a "fagot fire" to take the first autumn chill from rooms which a big fire would overheat.

Mother Graham was enthroned in her favorite big chair, and Dicky was seated opposite her, listening while she talked to him earnestly. Her eyes regarded him attentively, while her fingers plied her knitting needles with a skill that needed only an occasional glance.

Junior and Roderick were perched upon Dicky's knees, plainly impatient at his preoccupation with their grandmother, yet not daring to protest, or to interrupt her. But at my entrance they scrambled down with a hasty, perfunctory "Excuse me," and, dashing to me, clung to me while Junior pulled my head down and whispered:

"Can't we go into your study a minute? We want to ask you something."

Go to Study.

I nodded. "Go along now quietly," I said. "I'll be there in a minute."

They scampered off, and my mother-in-law looked up questioningly.

"What are they after now?" she asked, and Dicky laughed.

"If you can answer that, Madge, you're a good one," he said. "But why your study? I saw them scudding through that door as if the devil himself were chasing them."

I answered his laugh, although, through frequent conning of my boy's face and that of his cousin, I had a shrewd suspicion of what they wanted.

"I know as little as you do about it," I said. "Junior asked me if they could go into my study for a minute, said they wanted to ask me something. I'll go in after a minute or two and find out what they want."

"Share the joke when you come out, will you?" Dicky asked lazily, but his mother bristled.

"I do not see," she said a bit tartly, "why they should make such a secret out of a simple request. I do not know that either Richard or I have ever denied them anything in reason, but I notice that when they want some special favor, they always run to you, Margaret."

Dicky Teases Her.

"That's because she's such a softie," Dicky said teasingly, and I knew that he meant to divert his mothers captiousness by the quip, if possible. "But whee's the rest of the gang? he went on swiftly. "Hank and Bill were both here a few minutes ago."

"I sent Hank to Ticer's on an errand," I said, then added swiftly before he should have time to put the question: "He would not have had time to walk there and back before dinner, so I told him he could take my car. He promised to be careful. I hope you don't mind."

I had stolen his ammunition, and his protest was only perfunctory.

"I can't say as I think it's a particularly wise move," he said, "but it's your car. I don't care if you don't. But where's Bill?"

Bill Upstairs.

"I saw him upstairs just before I came down," I said, careful to speak the exact truth. "I think he was going to his room."

"He'll be down for dinner," he said, and as if the familiar word had evoked Katie out of thin air, she was in the doorway, announcing, "Dinner in 10 meenits, Meesis Graham." Then, before Mother Graham could open her mouth in the reproof of Katie's diction, which she rarely fails to give, my housekeeper had scuttled away again.

"When I think," Mother Graham apostrophized, "that for the money you pay that ape, you could have a maid who would know how to announce dinner promptly, and who would be a credit to the establishment, words fail me!"

I commented to myself that if they did, it was the first time in many years, and heard a cough from Dicky which I knew covered a chuckle. Then he leaped to the rescue gallantly.

"If you're going to find out what those kids want, Madge," he said, "hadn't you better make haste a bit?"

My Neighbor Says:

Most of the bulbous iris bloom during June, so you had better make your garden tours soon in order to select those that you would like to have next year. By July 1 most of the flowers will be past, and during July they may be lifted, dried out, and the young bulbels separated and the whole replanted in late September.

Bissman's Steel Cut Coffee

Here's Bissman's Recipe!

To make clear, full-flavored iced coffee, the hot infusion should be poured over ice cubes or cracked ice in tall glasses. The ice dilutes the coffee, so it must be strong to start with. Use 4 tablespoons of Bissman's steel cut coffee to each measuring cup of water. From ½ to ¾ cup of hot coffee is needed for each serving. Serve with sugar and plain, thick or whipped cream.
